LILLE FALLS

London, Oct. 17 (1:24 p. m.)--Lille, chief German base in Northern France has been captured by the British. Information of the capture of Lille was received from the Flanders battlefront this afternoon. Lille had been held by the Germans since the Autumn of 1914, when Von Kluck's German hordes over-ran Belgium and Northern France in their sweep towards Paris. The taking of Lille is one of the most important captures made by the allies since the general offensive was launched against the Germans in midsummer. The whole German line is shaken by this new allied victory.

The trustees of the Boston Elevated road will go before the next Legislature and ask new legislation to relieve the road's financial problems, according to the Boston News Bureau today. The seven cent fare is "hopelessly insufficient" in increased earnings and the amount of additional revenue through further increases in fares problematical. There is no expectation that the State guaranty status of the common stock will be affected, the article states.

AIR GAIN NEAR VERDUN

Ford the Aire River Under a Hail of Machine Bullets, Advance East of Grand Pre

By BERT FORD.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 16 (Night).—Fighting their way forward, foot by foot, in a heavy rain storm and under a never ceasing torrent of machine gun bullets, the Americans advanced nearly two miles northwest of Verdun today.

Without any artillery preparation the Americans forded the Aire river and in the face of a galling fire from enemy machine gun nests advanced east of Grand Pre to the northern edge of the Bois de Loges, three kilometers north of Chevieres. The Germans stubbornly contested every foot of the ground.

Americans now hold the summit of Montagne and have penetrated the Bois de Lagrande. This success was achieved by units of the First Army.

East of the Meuse River the Americans now hold Cote Chatillon.

During the night there was a flare up of fighting in Champigneulle, 2½ miles northeast of Grand Pre, which is now in American hands. A series of enemy raids was defeated.

The Americans have captured a locomotive and one million feet of lumber, as well as much bar metal and other supplies.

So I had affronted the Emperor himself! This, then, was the explanation of Von Sanders' boorish behavior. Fortunately, my position was impregnable. I had not arranged the seating precedence at this dinner; I had sent the list of my guests to the Marquis Pallavicini, the Austrian ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, and the greatest authority in Constantinople on such delicate points as this. The Marquis had returned the list, marking in red ink against each name the order of precedence—1, 2, 3, 4, 5, etc.

DUTCH TO RISK SHIPS, BRING HOME GRAIN

By International News Service

Washington, Oct. 17.—Holland has decided to send 40,000 tons of shipping to South America to bring back the rest of the 100,000 tons of grain allotted to The Netherlands on March 21, at the time America took over the Dutch vessels in the United States ports, it was announced by the Shipping Board.

Because of the submarine menace, Holland has been reluctant to risk her ships to bring back the grain. She had secured 50,000 tons from the United States, and the remainder has been waiting at South American ports several months. Because of the "change in the military situation," it was stated, The Netherlands government decided to risk the ships.

GERMAN PRISONERS AWARE OF PEACE OFFER

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 16.—(Night)—German prisoners captured by the Americans today know all about Germany's peace offer and President Wilson's reply. They said they had been informed by their officers.

PEACE RIOTING IS WIDESPREAD IN GERMANY

London, Oct. 17.—Riots against the Kaiser and the Crown Prince have spread from Berlin to other German cities, according to the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph.

The Chronicle, in commenting upon the capitulation rumors, took a skeptical view, saying:

"There is no real evidence of deterioration in the German military. We must not relax the intensity of our efforts."

The Post digressed to comment upon certain of President Wilson's peace principles, saying:

"We should treat President Wilson's proposition for a league of nations with respect, but we should not forget it is new and untried. While defending the hypothesis we must not surrender our well tried and trust) weapons—the army and navy."

"All rumors show that the end is near," says the Daily News. "The Kaiser's curtailing of his war-making powers means a surrender."

"Peace is comparatively near," the Times says.

The Telegraph, however, takes the stand that the enemy has not yet been brought to the point of despair where he will surrender unconditionally.

There were further evidences of

CZECHS AND POLES DESERT KAISER

By International News Service.

Copenhagen, Oct. 17.—The Czecho-Slovaks in Bohemia (Austria) proclaimed a republic yesterday at Prague, the capital, wires the Berlin correspondent of the National Tidende.

Basle, Oct. 17.—Croatia has decided to declare her independence and proclaimed a separation from Hungary, said a Buda Pest dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung. Croatia comprises the western half of the Hungarian crownland of Croatia-Slavonia. The Croats rose in revolution in 1848, but were suppressed.

Zurich, Oct. 17.—The independence of Poland was proclaimed at Warsaw on Monday, according to information received here today. There was a procession in the streets of the city.

Crumbling of Austria Sequel to Wilson Note

The general crumbling of the provinces of Austria-Hungary and an uprising in Poland come as the first important results of America's answer to the German peace note. While the Austro-Hungarian empire is eagerly awaiting a reply to its separate offer before taking official action toward a peace, the reported falling away of Bohemia and Croatia, and the proclamation of the independence of Poland, are actually a reply, spontaneous and indirect, to the refusal of this country to deal with existing military autocracies.

1,000 AIRSHIPS A WEEK, OUTPUT OF AMERICA

Lille is 38 miles from the coast and is a city of great strategic importance, owing to the great number of roads that converge there. Seven railway lines run into Lille and about a score of highways. The Germans have been using it as a base of operations and supplies since the early days of the war.

At one time the British were within eight miles of the city, but it was not until the new offensive was opened recently on the Flanders front that the place was doomed. The British made a great converging movement against the city, attacking from the north, the west and the south.

The attack by the allies on the northern end of the Flanders front in conjunction with the pressure east of Cambrai put the whole Lille-Douai line in peril and forced the Germans into a new retirement throughout the whole zone.

With the fall of Lille the adjacent cities of Tureoing and Roubaix are doomed. When the Germans made their big drive on the Flanders front in April the British were pressed back nearly twenty miles from Lille. But since then Marshal Foch's masterly strategy has steadily lessened the distance between the city and the allied front.

GERMAN PRESS STIRRED.

The German press was greatly stirred by President Wilson's note, involving, as it does, the position of the Kaiser.

The Kreuz-Zeitung, organ of the Junkers and the Pan-Germans, urges Germans "to stand and die for the Kaiser."

The Westsche Zeitung of Berlin takes the view that President Wilson's message is not an obstacle to peace, but would make it "slower and more difficult."

The Tageszeitung says Germany's answer should be "No."

The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the absence of conciliation in President Wilson's reply "retards peace."

See German Purpose to Keep the Atmosphere Charged With Peace Talk

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 17. — Official Washington today assumed an attitude of watchful waiting. With the report that the Kaiser had abdicated and that Germany had capitulated generally discredited—and in fact officially denied, according to reports reaching here by the official press bureau of London—officials were inclined more than ever to the belief that there would be still more wild rumors, all a part of Germany's program to keep the atmosphere surcharged with peace talk.

The State Department early today was without any word that would indicate that any startling developments had occurred within the imperial German government. The early reports that the Kaiser had abdicated were received with interest, but the same time with suspicion. And, it was made plain, all unconfirmed reports of developments in Germany in the future will be received with reserve, in view of what appears to be a persistent effort on the part of Germany to force her peace program to the bitter end.

ANYTHING TO GAIN TIME.

The American public officials emphasized, also, should bear in mind the fact that Germany will go to any extreme in an effort to gain time to reorganize her battle scarred military forces and to make the "victory" Liberty Loan a failure. Officials today admitted that the rumor of the Kaiser's abdication and of Germany's surrender would have a more direct effect on the loan than even the influenza epidemic has had.

While it was made plain that events in Germany, in the course of the past few days, have been such that startling developments might be expected at any time, officials warned that Germany would bend every effort to stave off or to check them. They were quite frank in saying that they looked for the dissolution of Austria-Hungary before they could expect any startling developments in Germany. And the dissolution of the dual monarchy, it was pointed out, might naturally be followed by events of marked importance in Germany.

CONFLICTING REPORTS.

Meanwhile, conflicting reports reached Washington as to Germany's reply to President Wilson's decision that no negotiations could be entered into with the German government, as it is now constituted, or while Germany continues its atrocities on land and sea.

One report coming out of Amsterdam, was that the reply had been drafted and that it would reach Washington this morning. Another, from Basle, Switzerland, was that the Reichstag would meet today to discuss the reply. German newspapers being given as authority for the statement.

The reply had not reached the Swiss location early today and officials generally were inclined to discredit the Amsterdam dispatch.

Reports that Germany had placed her terms of capitulation in the hands of President Wilson were denied by official circles in the White House. An unfinished report that the President had decided to go before Congress with a peace statement also was discredited.

PRESIDENT IN SECLUSION.

It was said that he would "stand pat" on the present situation, at least until there were developments that would make some utterance from him advisable. The President today again denied himself to all visitors. This was the second day in succession that the White House engagement book was blank, giving rise to the supposition that the executive was devoting much of his time to consideration of the Austro-Hungarian situation, and possibly to the forthcoming message to the dual monarchy.

Reports that the independence of Poland and of the Czecho-Slovaks in Bohemia had been proclaimed, and that Croatia had decided to break away from Hungary, were regarded as significant in White House circles.

Paris, Oct. 17.—Rumors again come into Paris in an unending swarm. Paris, having long since learned to distrust rumors, is stoically calm, awaiting facts. Paris "must be shown."

The press is still praising President Wilson's reply.

TEUTON STATES ARE DESERTING KAISER

According to a dispatch from London, the British government has recognized the Polish national army as "autonomous, allied and co-belligerent."

News from Paris already announced in the AMERICAN, is that the revolt of the Czechs in Bohemia is growing hourly, with Prague, the ancient capital, as the storm centre. Austrian troops with machine guns and light artillery are said to be guarding the streets, and frequent conflicts between civilians and soldiery are reported, with the deaths of many women and children.

BOHEMIANS ARE SLAVS.

Bohemia is the province at the extreme northwest of Austria, bounded on the north by Saxony and Silesia, and on the west by Bavaria. In spite of the fact that for five centuries it has been ruled by Austria, with German for the official language, the Bohemians are a Slavic race, and are thoroughly aroused, according to dispatches, and are steadily defying the military authorities sent there to quell the riots.

Croatia, usually grouped with Slavonia, is a province in southwest Hungary, with a stretch of seacoast on the Adriatic. It is an agricultural country, producing wine, fruits, grain, olives, sheep, goats and timber. The capital is Agram, which has a population of about 58,000, and has a considerable industry in manufacturing carpets.

The two provinces occupy 16,424 square miles of territory and have a population of about 2,500,000.

Poland, long famous in song, history and romance for the love of liberty and the cruel wrongs inflicted on her by Russia, Germany and Austria, has been the pawn and stamping ground of other nations for centuries.

Poland is east of Prussia, which her people hate with an eternal hatred, although they are said to feel rather friendly toward the Bavarians. On the south, Poland is bounded by Austra. Originally an independent nation, she has been conquered by Russia and Germany successively.

MAY BE GERMAN MOVE.

Some doubt exists in official circles whether the reported proclamation of independence was made by the Poles themselves or by th German occupational government. The dispatches are vague, but it is believed possible that the Germans may have decided to free Poland as a measure of expediency.

At the time of the Russian evacuation a year or two ago Poland had enjoyed nominal independence. The German army of occupation was to assist after the withdrawal of the Russian troops. A Boston woman in Warsaw at the time tells a thrilling story of the celebration by the Poles during the brief interval.

her went to the opera. Noble, wealth who had followed the national custom for more than a hundred years, of not wearing colors in public, put on gala court attire. The old, beloved national anthem of Poland was played in public for the first time in a century. One of the famous do Reszke brothers, of opera fame, stood upon a parapet of the citadel and sang the national hymn as the Russians retreated.

POLITICAL PRISONERS FREED.

When the Bavarians entered, their commander, posing friendly to the oppressed Poles, according to the story, asked them what he could do to show good will. He was asked to release the political prisoners in the citadel. Out of a certain noted pavilion, belonging to the chieftain, came prisoners who had dropped out of the memory of those living.

Among them was a woman of high birth who had been educated as a physician.

She had said once, in informal conversation at a private dinner that she believed the time had come when the peasants should be educated. For this she was clapped into prison and forgotten. When released she was playing with a doll—her mind completely shattered.

Other persons—old, decrepit, demented—came out of the citadel, whose fate had never been known by their nearest relatives or their dearest friends. They had "disappeared."

The recognition by Great Britain of the Polish national army is a peculiar and interesting feature of the international situation, quite different from the recognition of the Czecho-Slovaks in Bohemia. The latter province is a belligerent state, according to legal definition, being a military and political entity. The Polish army has not as yet political and territorial identification, but has been recognized as a self-governing organization.

KAISER CALLED ON TO GIVE UP HUGE AREA AS PEACE PRELIMINARY

PRESIDENT DETERMINED TO SAVE ALL LANDS FOR DEMOCRACY

Colossal is the extent of territcy which Germany will have to give up in order to comply with the demands of President Wilson and the Allies as first guarantee of sncerity in peace propaganda.

When one includes in this evauation scheme the lands which were brought under the sinister German "influence," especially in Russia, the aggregate comprises hundreds of thousands of square miles.

In his reply of October 8, President Wilson included this paragraph:

"The good faith of any discussion would manifestly depend upon the consent of the Central Pcwers immediately to withdraw their forces everywhere from invaded territory."

Mark that word "EVERYWHERE."

It includes, of course, what the Germans still retain in France, Belgium (practically all), Montenegro, the upper parts of Albania and Serbia and all Rumania on the western and southern sides alone of the Central Powers.

BIG AREAS IN WEST.

Evacuation of Belgium alone means giving up more than 10,000 square miles. Belgium's area numbers 11,373 square miles. Germany holds all this except between 600 and 700 square miles westward of the Flanders battlefront.

In France the irregularity of the battlefront and its constant shifting make it impossible to figure the invaded territory better than a mere approximation of between five and six thousand square miles.

The eleventh of President Wilson's fourteen peace points of January 8 read:

"Evacuation of Rumania, Serbia and Montenegro with access to the sea for Serbia and international guarantees of economic and political independence and territorial integrity of the Balkan States."

Rumania has 54,000 square miles, all which Germany will be required to surrender.

TEUTON HOLD SLIPPING.

The Teuton hold of Serbia and Albania is slipping, with the Allied Macedonian forces pressing the enemy north of Nish in Serbia and with the Italians occupying the Austrian naval base of Durazzo on the Adriatic.

In his eight peace point of January 8, President Wilson stipulated:

"All French territory to be freed and restored and reparation for the taking of Alsace-Lorraine."

But France is known to demand the complete restoration of these two provinces, wrested from her by Germany after the Franco-Prussian war. England stands for that restoration, too. The 5,600 square miles of Alsace-Lorraine, to which Germany never had a right, may be added to the evacuation whole.

Add also the Italian territory occupied by the Austrians north of the Piave line.

Swinging around the evacuation circle to the east the question becomes more complex and the extent of German surrender of occupied territory and spheres of influence becomes vastly greater.

NEW POLISH STATE.

Our peace terms call for establishment of an independent Polish State. This means about 10,000 square miles in one term alone.

The Baltic provinces comprise the following squares miles:

Esthcnia	7,818
Livonia	18,158
Courland	10,535
Total	36,511

The Ukraine, where the German picturs who brought Linine and Trotsky, has screwed itself into a Bolshevik dupes by concluding a treaty, setting up a spreate Ukrandian government; includes the vast territory dominion in itself—which stretches eastward from Poland and is known as "Little Russia." It runs over to the territory of the fierce Don Cossacks and is more than twice as large as Poland.

Then there is the Murman coast of Finland where American, British and French troops are operating.

OCCUPIED COUNTRIES WHICH GERMANY MUST EVACUATE

Shaded portions of map show great areas which central empires occupy or dominate and which must be sur-rendered as a necessary preliminary before entering into peace negotiations with the United States and allied nations, according to the terms laid down by President Wilson. Though the war is being settled in the West, a glance at the map shows the immensity of territory in the East now dominated by Germany in contrast to the small occupied portions of Belgium and France. If Germany could still hold Russia, Poland and Finland she would have won the war, and would be willing to retire inside her frontiers on the West.

THUGS ATTACK HIS WITNESSES, SAYS TAGUE

Intimidation Charged by Congressman Prior to Reopening of Hearing

Congressman Tague, in a statement issued before the opening of the Tague-Fitzgerald hearing before the Ballot Law Commission at the State House today, charged that witnesses are being intimidated and that "slugging" is going on in the very State House itself. One of Congressman Tague's witnesses, David Stone, was assaulted by two men in the corridors of the State House, after he had finished his testimony, it is alleged.

Congressman Tague said: "Thugs are intimidating my witnesses who have been summoned to prove irregularities in the primary contest. We saw yesterday the slugging in the very State House itself of a young man who was called to testify in my behalf.

"The fact that today so few of the witnesses summoned by the sergeant-at-arms have put in an appearance sheds further light on the methods that are used in Ward 5 to uphold the autocracy which has existed there for years.

"With their young ruffians they are ready to overpower with physical force the attempts that are being made by citizens to preserve the sanctity of election."

SEVEN WITNESSES APPEAR.

The hearing went on as usual, and out of 100 witnesses for whom summonses were issued only seven were present.

Major Robert O. Dalton, who is in the draft department of the office of the adjutant-general, the first witness, testified that out of thirty-three men who had been recorded as voting on Sept. 24, and which had been given to him, he found the records of thirteen in military service. He said that he had no record to show where they were on primary day.

Frank I. Barry of No. 5½ Ashburton place, who says that he is a stage manager, testified that he went to Precinct 9 of Ward 5, the voting place for which is Faneuil Hall. After he had marked his ballot half way down he found it was a ballot of Ward 4, Precinct 1.

Barry said he wished to destroy the ballot, but that the election officials refused to allow him to do this. He turned to the policeman, so he claimed, but the officer shook his head.

BALLOT "DEFECTIVE."

He said that Mr. McCurdy told him to write his name on the ballot, and that it would be marked as a defective ballot and he would be given the regular ballot of the precinct to vote upon.

Former Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell: "Mr. McCurdy is a member of the Hendricks Club, isn't he?"

Witness: "I don't know. He works in City Hall."

Q.—"He's a fight promotor, isn't he?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Q.—"He has a prize fight club in the West End, hasn't he?"

Witness: "I don't know."

Mrs. Sarah Steinwerger of No. 21 Oneida street, the next witness, testified that her son, Maurice, is in the army and that he is now stationed at Camp Devens. He had not been home on primary day, or for months before or after. She said that she did not know where he was on that day.

Congressman Tague claims that the boy's name was voted on.

FOE RESISTANCE BROKEN, SAYS ASQUITH

London, Oct. 17.—"The war is not yet over, but the enemy's resistance is broken," said Ex-Premier Asquith, addressing the Liberal Club.

"The purposes for which we entered the war will be attained unless we blindly throw them away.

"President Wilson's note left Germany a loophole of escape. There is no intention of humiliating or destroying the German people. The main objective is to destroy Prussianism. We must beware of militarism dressed in a democratic garb."

"The doom of the war is sealed," the former premier continued. "The peace proposal comes from people who in their heart of hearts have given up the game.

"No one is more qualified to act as the allies' spokesman than President Wilson."

The establishment of a German democratic government depends upon the possibilities of the seat of the peace.

British Make Progress in a New Offensive Southeast of Cambrai

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 17 (12:30 p. m.).—The British began a new offensive this morning on a six and one-half mile front southeast of Cambrai, the War office announced. Field Marshal Haig reported satisfactory progress was being made.

The assault was launched at 5:20 o'clock between Le Cateau and the line.

Further progress has been made southwest of Lille. The German vanguard attacked in the sector of Haussy, on the Selle River north of Le Cateau, and the British were forced back to the west of the town.

Haussay was captured by the British yesterday.

The text of the official report follows:

"We were pressed back west of Haussy. Fighting continues there. We made further progress southwest of Lille.

"At 5:20 o'clock this morning we attacked on the front between Rubain and Le Cateau. Satisfactory progress was made."

The northern portions of Courtrai, an important German base on the Lys river, has been entered by the British troops, the War Office announced last night. The advance of the British, Belgians and French was continued over the whole thirty-mile front between Dixmude and the Lys river on Wednesday, the allies making a new gain of between three and four miles.

On the southern end of the line the Belgians crossed the Lys and took Schoorbakke. On the northern end the British crossed the Lys and pushed on the river about two miles beyond Heulin.

Thourout is in the hands of the Belgians. Lichtervelde and Ardoye are held by the French. Over a score of villages have been liberated, and in addition to more prisoners great stores of booty were taken.

BRITISH DRIVE SOUTHEAST OF CAMBRAI

By FRANK CHARLTON.
International News Service Cable Editor.

Simultaneously with the German rout in Flanders, the British began a new drive today on a front of between six and seven miles southeast of Cambrai. Satisfactory progress was made in the first dash.

The new assault centred between Rubain and Le Cateau, and it is possible that Americans are taking part, as they have been fighting with the British in this vicinity. So fought, which lies on the Selle River, south of Le Cateau, was taken by Americans in the last flare up of fighting on this part of the front.

The attackers are advancing in the direction of Wassigny, where numerous roads join. On the Flanders front the British have entered Courtrai, an important German base on the Lys River, and it is believed that the important Belgian town of Thielt is about to fall if it has not already been captured by the French.

In the fighting on Wednesday the French took and passed Ardoye, five miles west of Thielt, and it is presumed that patrols have pushed ahead of the main body of advancing troops.

It is unofficially estimated that the British, French and Belgians on the Flanders front have taken upwards of 16,000 prisoners, although the Boches fell back so swiftly that it was difficult to maintain fighting contact.

The German retreat has extended southward to the Lille-Douai line, covering a front of about 65 miles. The Germans were compelled to fall back in that zone to prevent being completely enveloped. It is believed that the British can take Douai at will, but for reasons unknown outside of their army command, have been holding off.

The German hold on the North Sea coast has been definitely broken at last, and it is possible that the Germans may fall back all the way to Antwerp and form their right flank upon the Holland frontier.

While the allies were advancing in the north the Americans made a new attack in the Grand Pre sector northwest of Verdun, advancing nearly two miles and widening the gap in the Kriemhilde line.

The American attack was carried out in stormy weather and against the most desperate resistance. The failure of the Crown Prince on the Western front, however, remains the Belgian victory.

With Thielt in their hands, the allies will be only seventeen miles from the Dutch border, this distance representing the "bottle neck" through which the Germans must retreat unless they abandon their artillery.

There are only two lines of railways through this district.

The maximum allied advance in Belgium since the new drive began there on Thursday morning was officially estimated today at about twelve miles.

British forces are almost in Lille and when this city falls Turcoing and Roubaix will be dropped.

"Full Steam Ahead," Says Winston Churchill

London, Oct. 17.—Winston Churchill, British Minister of Munitions, addressing a meeting in Manchester yesterday, said President Wilson's reply to Germany's peace note entitled it to the whole-hearted endorsement of all the Allies.

"The atrocities committed by the Germans," said Mr. Churchill, "will arouse in the future such horror and reprobation which generations will not remove. We must secure the guarantees which would prevent Germany hopetessl to repeat the crimes for which she is now being punished.

"It may be that a very serious struggle lies before us, but considerable time and resting immense expenditures of life and treasure will be saved. There can be but one maxim. 'Full steam ahead.'"

GERMANS DRIVE CIVILIANS FROM BRUGES

By JOHN T. PARKERSON.

With the British Army on the Flanders Front, Oct. 16—(8 p. m.)—It was reported tonight that the Germans have evacuated all civilians from Bruges, Turcoing and Roubaix.

Bruges is approximately eight miles from the present fighting front. Turcoing is about six miles from the fighting, while Roubaix is immediately southeast of Turcoing.

Information has been received from well-informed sources that it was the German plan to withdraw to a depth of sixty kilometers (thirty-seven miles). The Germans intend to retire in successive stages to a line immediately west of Valenciennes, but since this has been interrupted by the quick and continued thrusts of the allies.

The German morale is weakening. Since June there have been many mutinies among the troops and much insubordination towards the commanders of convoys. Closed wagons are now being used with convoys as cells for disobedients.

In the fruit of the fleeing Germans one thing stands out above the sad streams of refugee civilians. It is the triumphant rise of Belgium from the tears and ashes shed for the world's liberty. While the battle-scarred King Albert stands beside his people like a devoted parent, sharing their woes and encouraging and cheering them.

In contrast with the dejected spirit of the Belgians, keeping high faith in victory through years of the horrible nightmare of war, is the fraternizing and docile manner of the German prisoners. This has been brought about almost over night. For instance, a number of Bavarians, who had packed their kits, said they were disgusted at being kept in the line without any rest, and readily acquiesced when a comrade suggested: "It's no use losing our lives. Let's surrender." They did.

FIGHT THEATRE OPENING AT CAMBRIDGE

Parents Feel Schools Should Be Re-opened Before the Playhouses

A protest is being made in Cambridge against permitting motion picture houses to open, while the schools are kept closed. It is felt that unless definite restrictions are imposed on the attendance of children at movie houses the schools should be reopened before places of amusement.

Meanwhile the theatres continue their preparations to open, while there is no sign of similar activities in the schools.

There has been a marked decrease in the epidemic in Cambridge in the last 24 hours, officials' records noting but six deaths and 44 new cases. In the preceding 24 hours there were 19 deaths and 49 new cases.

WORST OUTBREAK IN SALEM.

Salem's influenza epidemic has virtually come to an end, according to the Board of Health, and no new cases have been reported in that city in the past twenty-four hours.

Enough of the Dr. Leary serum has been received by the health authorities to vaccinate fifty patients. The location and number of the vaccinations will be fixed on Monday.

In North Adams nightly fumigation of all factories in the city, the whitewashing of the Dr. Leary serum and prohibition of theatrical performances are measures adopted by the Board of Health to prevent further spread of influenza. There are 475 reported cases of the disease and ten deaths have resulted so far in the epidemic.

LEXINGTON SCHOOLS TO REOPEN.

Conditions in Pittsfield are reported as more encouraging today than any day since the outbreak of the epidemic. There have been 1,600 cases and 170 deaths since the outbreak of the disease on September 27. The ban still remains on theatres, saloons, churches and schools.

Announcement was made today by the Lexington school committee that the public schools will reopen Monday morning. The epidemic is practically over, and all social functions will resume during the coming week, including the opening of the Red Cross headquarters in Buckman Tavern.

There were two more deaths in Boston today from the epidemic than yesterday, the total being twenty-one, as against nineteen yesterday. Fifteen of today's deaths are scored against influenza and six against pneumonia. Yesterday thirteen were laid to influenza and six to pneumonia.

New Vaccine Will Be Used to Combat Grip in Chicago

The vaccine is intended to make persons immune. It was administered to 20,000 in Rochester, Minn., recently, and resulted in great reduction in the spread of the epidemic. Not one death followed the use of the vaccine, although many of those inoculated had previously been sufferers.

Fresh water is no longer being used to water the streets, the ocean being called on to supply fluid for this purpose. Newport, whose water consumption should not exceed 3,000,000 gallons a day, is using 4,700,000 gallons a day, according to President Bradford Norman of the water works. He calls attention to the fact that the large Summer colony only consumed 400,000 gallons a day more in the Summer than is being used by the native population today.

GIVES THRILLING STORY OF 'LOST BATTALION'

New York, Oct. 17.—With six months of fighting behind them, thirty of General Pershing's officers have arrived in this country to aid in the concluding days of the Fourth Liberty Loan drive. At a luncheon given at the Bankers' Club they told many remarkable stories of their experiences. One of the most interesting was that of First Lieutenant Arthur F. McKeogh, a former Manhattan newspaper man.

He told the sequel to the story of the famous "Lost Battalion," which fought for five days and five nights while surrounded by the enemy in the Argonne forest. McKeogh was battalion adjutant. What happened he explained as follows:

"On the night of September 25 we relieved the French and the 308th Infantry became a part of the big twenty-mile push. We stood over the top behind a heavy barrage at 5:30 in the morning. The major kept hustling me along, although there was plenty of machine gun resistance, until we had outstripped the division on our left and had reached L'Homme Mort.

KILLS HIS MAN.

"At a sufficient I found that Post No. 30, in a cemetery, was out of business. Then we began hearing machine guns on our left and we realized we were surrounded. The major immediately gave orders to dig in. That was on the morning of the 29th.

"I disposed my men and sent out parties of chauffeur men and bombers to flank the machine gun nests. But try as we would we couldn't get around them, and finally the major called us off and ordered me to take two runners with me and go back through the German lines to the colonel in person.

"So I picked Jack Munson and a little fellow named Hirshkowitz and we started crawling through the jungle at good, safe a compass. We hadn't gone far before we heard a sniper at work. We almost ran into two German officers coming around a tent. And we ducked into a bush and lay flat while they came on. I rested my revolver on a horizontal bough close to the ground and aimed at the foremost of the two, but he saw me and we fired simultaneously. His bullet grazed my elbow.

"Well, I got him. The fellow with him ran away. We crawled out of the jungle again, and I searched the dead officer's clothes to see if he had anything of interest to the intelligence section.

KILLS TWO THIS TIME.

"We left the path and started crawling again, and ran right into a Boche bivouac. In front of us was a funk hole with two or three Boches in it. We tried to crawl around it, and plumped right into a second funk hole. I yelled to my two men to separate and make a dash for it. I darted for cover also. But in doing so I jumped right into a third funk hole and landed astride the shoulders of one of the Boches in it. The other stood up and stared at me. I remembered saying: "Was ist los?" and he simply repeated it after me, "Was ist los?" Somehow that brought me to my senses.

"I pulled my gun out, stuck it against his chest and gave him two. In the meantime, of course, the fellow under me was trying to heave me off. I reached down between my knees and fired into his back. Then I jumped out of the hole and ran like blazes down the side of a hill and hid in a bed of dried leaves until 4 o'clock in the morning, reaching the colonel about 7:30."

DEVENS POLES GIVE $11,050 FOR BONDS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Oct. 17.—Pledging allegiance to the Stars and Stripes and subscribing $11,050 to the Fourth Liberty Loan, 500 soldiers of Polish extraction cheered President Wilson and General Pershing at a banquet in the main building of the Knights of Columbus here. Each soldier was presented a naturalization certificate.

Thousands of rounds of rifle bullets were used today when the extra men from the various regimental companies practiced shooting at the rifle range. The men, most of whom never fired a shot before, surprised company commanders by the accuracy of their aim.

Sergeant Harry Berg of G Company, 7th Infantry, who pleaded guilty to a polygamy charge in Ayer Police Court Tuesday and whose case was continued for disposition, was today found guilty by Judge Atwood and ordered turned over to the military authorities. Major Hitchcock of the 7th Infantry took charge of Berg, who will be tried before a court-martial board.

Berg was married in June, 1916, to Veronica M. Tucker, twenty-two, of Crompton, R. I., and later wedded Helen B. Lueddecke, twenty-three, of Medford, Wis. He was found living with the latter on Pleasant street, Ayer. Despite this fact he corresponded with his first wife, who drew his monthly allowance of $40 from the government.

It is now Lieutenant-Colonel Philip H. Stoll. He is attached to the division judge advocate's office. He is the first to be promoted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel from civil life on this side. He was presented a handsome stand of flowers by the enlisted personnel of his office. His home is in Kingston, S. C.

A private who refused to disclose his name for publication today subscribed $50,000 to the camp's Fourth Liberty Loan fund. He signed up for that amount in the presence of Sergeant George J. Ginsburg at division headquarters. A lieutenant signed up for $1,000 worth of bonds. He promised to pay $100 a month out of his allotment of $165.

No settlement of the strike of the fifty employes of the highway, sewer and water department and the health department in Arlington, who are striking for a 25-cent-a-day increase in wages, had been reached today. The only serious problem if the strike lasts long will be the matter of the collection of garbage and ashes.

Young AMERICANS

Do your bit

Save sugar, wheat, meat, labor and fuel

MOST people when they say "Corn Flakes" mean "Kellogg's"—the Original—the Flakes that are delicate and thin, with a flavor and sweetness all their own.

Don't merely ask for "Corn Flakes"—specify Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes and look for the signature of W. K. Kellogg on the package.

Every time you serve Kellogg's you are helping to save wheat, meat and sugar.

Kellogg's is ready to serve. It saves labor and fuel.

It is an all-the-year food for everybody, any time of day, with milk or evaporated milk, fresh or stewed fruits.

Kellogg's is about the only cereal that needs no sugar—owing to the flavor and sweetness developed in the Kellogg Process.

It is economical and convenient to buy. Any family in America can get Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes in the time it takes to reach the nearest grocery store.

Filene's Four separate shops of COATS

If one could have stood last year on Filene corner, which is the crossing point of all carlines leading into Boston, one would have seen 60,000 women, misses, girls and children in new Filene coats. Filene's has a four-cylinder coat shop—a coat shop for women on the fifth floor, a coat shop for misses and one for girls of 6 to 20 on the fourth floor, and a coat shop for children on the third floor. Each is in charge of a specialist. Each is reached by express elevators. We have never found a better way to give good values and good service every day to everybody than by this arrangement of highly specialized separate shops. A few typical Filene values in coats are sketched below:

Filene coats come fresh from the tailors every day

WOMEN'S COATS

Sketched, a Filene value in women's velours coats

An extremely soft beautiful quality of wool velours in the wanted taupes and browns. Coats are hand-lined throughout with peau de cygne; tailoring is noticeably expert. $45.

Sketched, a Filene value in women's plush coats

Black silk plush velours, with as silky a touch as sealskin. Coats are furred generously with natural raccoon, $115. Plain plush coats, $35 and more.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor.

We stand back of the DYES in our coats

MISSES' COATS

Sketched, a Filene value in misses' loose-back coats

Many of the newer coats have loose, rippling, unbelted backs. One is sketched, in wool velours, hand-lined throughout with fancy silk and interlined. $35.

Sketched, a Filene value in misses' fur-trimmed coats

On the right, misses' wool velours coats with generous collars of nutria. Coats are lined and interlined; printed silk linings are unusually pretty. $45.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor.

Almost every coat in Filene's today is warmly interlined

COATS for GIRLS of 6 to 14

Sketched, a Filene value in girls' zibeline coats

Silky, soft and warm; cut full to allow for growing; two deep pockets and a most comfy collar which can be worn high or low. $18.75. Green.

Sketched, a Filene value in girls' cheviot coats

On the right, girls' tailored heavy cheviot coats with fur collars and flying-panel pockets. $15. Navy blue, 8 to 14 yrs.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor.

Only selected furs are used to trim Filene coats

CHILDREN'S COATS

Sketched, a Filene value in children's chinchilla eiderdown coats

On the right, cozy little washable white coats, warmly lined and interlined. Sizes 2 to 3 years. $4.50.

Sketched, a Filene value in reefers

On the left, warm, thick but not uncomfortably heavy oxford mixture double-breasted reefers. Sizes 2 to 6. $8.75.

Filene's—mail orders filled—third floor.

Christmas stocks are ready—shop early, ship early

Loan still lagging. Last three days. Have you "doubled up?" Berlin is watching. LEND!

Filene's—MEN'S SHOPS

When Uncle Sam commands

"Put every dollar you can spare into the Fourth Liberty Loan"

Filene's will meet you

more than half way with marked good-clothes economies like these:

Suits start at $20

Men's and young men's garments from a Filene maker educated to Filene standards in fabrics and workmanship. Full and quarter lined. Regular and patch pockets, $20 to $35.

Large and varied assortment of blue serges at $30, including Stein-Bloch. Unfinished worsteds at $35, including Stein-Bloch.

Scotch heather mixtures, including Stein-Bloch, $30 and $35. Same style and much of the making men must pay the custom tailor more than ever now.

Other suits up to $65, Stein-Bloch up to $55

Filene knitted topcoats $20, $22, $25

In blues and grays, black and white homespuns, and fancy mixtures. Generous value in times like these, $20.

In heavier fabrics with better linings and trimmings, $22.
In new shade of gray, much-wanted light brown, and two-tone (gray and blue) and heather effect. Satisfying style, tailoring, trimmings, $25.

Other topcoats up to $55. Winter overcoats, $20 to $85

Long-lived shoes

Uppers are each cut from the centre of selected skins. Soles are each cut from the backbone of a selected hide. Making each pair a sample pair, yet at only an average price. In gun metal and Russia calf, $10.

Other men's shoes, $5.50 to $12.

Hats for "rainy days"

Yet entirely presentable if sun comes out. Also for golf, motoring, week-ends. Dark green mixed, light green mixed, black mixed, dark brown mixed, tan mixed, $3. Other soft hats, $2.50 to $8.

"Service" or civilian shirts

White, with laundered attached cuffs, from "line count" shirting, $2.

Gloves, too

Washable tan capeskin and neutral chamois, $2.

Filene's—second floor—convenient, roomy—take men's elevator

604 NEW ENGLAND TOWNS ARE 'OVER TOP' FOR LOAN

MAINE LEADS WITH RECORD OF 181

Boston being $14,512,000. The standing of the states for the 16th day of the campaign was:

	Today's sales.	Total to date.
Maine	$1,122,000	$17,001,000
New Hamp	1,013,000	12,319,000
Vermont	688,000	9,109,000
Rhode Isl'd	2,577,000	33,880,000
Connecticut	5,071,000	63,284,000
Mass	27,354,000	238,937,000
Totals	$37,825,000	$375,496,000

New England had 604 cities and towns over the top at noon today, Maine leading with 181, Vermont next with 167, New Hampshire 109, Massachusetts 75, Connecticut 66, Rhode Island 5.

$25,000,000 NEEDED.

For two consecutive days New England has given the lie to the knockers and pessimists by responding with the approximate totals asked for by loan officials. But three days remain in which to raise approximately $125,000,000. The retirement still calls for more than $40,000,000 a day.

United, persistent, intensified effort alone can accomplish the desired result. No stone must be left unturned in the endeavor to aid New England for the final spurt which it is expected will put the district "over the top" with flying colors on Saturday night.

From Washington came the announcement that the nation has recorded less than $4,000,000,000 of the $4,000,000,000 loan total. The task of raising more than $2,000,000,000 before Saturday midnight is conceded to be the most gigantic ever confronting any nation.

The New England total for the sixteenth day was exactly $37,825,000 which was the largest single day's total except two during the entire campaign. Today's figure was considerably from 701 cities and towns, the 316 banks co-operating in the campaign.

SPOKE WANTS A TANK.

In Massachusetts Holyoke had passed the mark, reporting $5,200,000 against a quota of $4,450,000. Holyoke is still at work, having very much in view the naming of a ship or a tank for itself.

This honor goes to different communities in five districts in the State, the honor of furnishing the ships or tanks, cities and towns in each group which have the largest percentage of subscribers in proportion to subscriptions to the fourth Liberty Loan campaign and the selling of bonds will go on right through the afternoon and evening.

The Boston Trades Committee reports the award of industrial honor pennants to the following "100 per cent." contributors:

Boston Automatic Fire Alarm; Bill, Clark & Co.; American Strip Drawing Co.; Mutual Benefit Life Institute, Boston agency; Wilson & Co., Parker & Dawson; National Shawmut Bank; Sexton Can Co.; John E. Allen & Co.; National Cloth Co.; Ilgria Press; F. Gray & Co.; Colburn Gear Mfg. Co.; Hiland, Lockwood Co.; Provident Institution for Savings; Leopold Morse Co.; C. E. Osgood Co.; Shattuck & Jones; Schulz Engraving & Electrotype Co.; J. H. Long Co.; Bergin Wine Co.; H. S. Draper, Liggett's Store, 432 Broadway, South Boston; Massachusetts Fire and Marine Insurance Co.; Massachusetts Wharf Coal Co.; David Bangah & Son; Baker, Ayling & Young; Karl Andrew; E. H. Baker & Son Co.; Whitney & Elwell; Boston Navy Yard Employees' Co-op. D. S. McGregory; Hunter Pipe & Piping Co.; Metropolitan Coal Co.; Earl & Wilson; Brown-Howland Co.; Sullivan Laundry, Navy Yard.

97 Per cent.: Washington Electric Mfg. Co. 95 per cent.; Merrimac Chemical Co. 95 per cent.; Merrimac Wharf Coal Co. 95 per cent.; Bigelow, Kennard & Co., Inc., 95 per cent.; C. F. Hovey Co.; Walter M. Lowney; Welch & Peterson.

State Treasurer Charles M. Burrill today deposited $2,000,000 in the depositary banks employed for the funds of the Commonwealth. This, he believed, would assist in financing of the last days of the campaign.

Mrs. Forbes-Robertson Hale to Speak at Mass Meeting on the Common Tomorrow

Speakers at the mass meeting held by the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee on the Common tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 will include Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, Lieutenant Robert Bagues of the French army, sent here by the French High Commission, and Albert Tyck, an alderman from Antwerp, who will give thrilling accounts of the conditions on the other side.

The mass meeting is held under the auspices of nineteen organizations, in charge of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, chairman of Women's Organizations for the Liberty Loan, and include:

Boston City Federation of Clubs, Professional Women's Club, Business Women's Club, Conference Board of Jewish Women's Organizations, League of Catholic Women, Liberty Loan Committee for Massachusetts Women of Foreign Birth or Descent, Massachusetts Society of Colonial Dames, Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution, Massachusetts Public Interest League of the Anti-Suffrage Association, Special Aid Society for American Preparedness, Woman's Department National Civic Federation, Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Young Woman's Christian Association, Girls' Friendly Society, Women's Trade Union League, Massachusetts Women Workers, Women's 101st nfantry, Council of Jewish Women and Roxbury Ladies' Aid and Fuel Society.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell, State chairman, will preside. The Radio School Band will furnish music.

CHORUS HEADS PARADE.

The Liberty Loan parade of Boston women today started from R. H. White's store at noon, led by the Liberty Chorus, trained by Mrs. May Sleeper Goggins and directed by Miss Norton. This was followed by one of the German guns captured in Lorraine, on which rode Mrs. Russell Steinert and Miss Lombard, members of the Flying Squadron. The allies squad from Camp Devens, followed by the Liberty Loan workers in uniform, in the court of honor.

The procession halted while the band from William Filene's Sons Company played the Star-Spangled Banner. Miss Ida Mauch played the cornet from various tables. Secretary of State Langtry introduced Miss Talbot and Miss Valentine, privates in the French Army, who returned Thursday from ambulance driving in France, for a three month's furlough. Robert B. Holley, sergeant in the 16th Battalion of the First Canadian Contingent, who has been in three years' active service, and has been wounded three times, was the speaker.

Evidently the women of New England are busy in improving these last days of the drive to the utmost to rounds out their efforts, only three States reporting at the Boston headquarters this morning. Maine, Mrs. Grace A. Wing, executive chairman, secured $235,700. Mrs. Edward Curtis Smith of Vermont reports an additional $1,000 from Addison County and $1,050 from Lamoille County, making the State total to date $2,398,700. Massachusetts women, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, chairman, are still leading the New England contingent, returns to date totalling $17,525,700.

"NOT BY MIGHT SHOWN."

Through the courtesy of the Jordan & Marsh Company, the symbolic war picture, "Not by Might," painted by Arthur Merton Hazard of Boston for the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of New England for publicity purposes, has given a place of honor in one of their Washington street windows.

From every section of Massachusetts come reports today that the women are making almost superhuman efforts to put their part of the loan "over the top."

Norfolk County woman's committee has increased subscriptions to $1,198,650. Of this amount Stoughton has secured $26,950; Needham, $216,-300; Franklin, $111,950; Dover and Charlesriver, $44,800; Wrentham, $21,450; Weymouth, $50,000; Bellingham, $450; Milton, $510,750; Walpole, $18,600; Medfield, $20,000; Wrentham, $18,250; Westport, $8,050; Wellesley, $30,200.

Medford women headed by Miss Josephine Wilcox are making a canvass of the stores, urging them to work for the 100 per cent. emblems. Of fifty-seven visited, one-half were already eligible for the banner. Women of Metropolitan are raising $4,000,000, the figures totaling $2,754,750.

"Having suffered from nervous indigestion for several years, I find after using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that I am as well as I ever was and can now eat anything without fear of consequences." (From a letter to Dr. Caldwell written by Mrs. John K. Moore, 516 No. 27th St., Richmond, Va.)

Indigestion and constipation are conditions closely related and the cause of much suffering. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild, pleasantly effective laxative; it quickly relieves the intestinal congestion that retards digestion and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years.

Among the "happy family" of Liberty Loan workers at No. 85 Milk street are four girls whose names betoken the atmosphere in which the big "Fighting Fourth" organization pushes on to victory.

They are the Misses Gay, Miss Jolley and Miss Eager. All are stenographers who assist in handling the immense volume of correspondence and detail incident to carrying on the big campaign.

Their names are fully in keeping with their dispositions, according to their fellow-workers, and their all-very laughter is the life of the office upon occasion.

Miss Grace T. Jolley of No. 3 Batavia street, Boston, is a true Southern girl who comes from Tennessee. Misses Dorothy T. and Lois Gay of No. 46 Irving street, Cambridge, hail from Birmingham, Ala. While last, but not least, Miss Helen Eager, is a Massachusetts girl who commutes from No. 39 Newton street, Marlboro.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards's determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

'Bonus' Operators to Be Rushed Into Active Service

Washington, Oct. 17.—The army needs fast telegraphers for duty with General Pershing.

Men skilled in fast telegraphy, between the ages of eighteen and fifty-five should apply at once for details to the chief signal officer of the army, Washington, D. C. The American Expeditionary Forces require immediately 750 "bonus"—extra fast—operators.

The first 150 of these men will go overseas at once, and the remainder will go between now and June 30, 1919, at the rate of about eighty a month. The men will not be kept in camp for instruction, but only for sufficient time to outfit them with necessary clothing and equipment.

The standard requires simply that the physical standard will be lowered in the cases of men having the necessary technical qualifications, so that virtually any one physically able to do this work will be acceptable.

WALKING FROM COAST TO COAST, THOUGH MINUS LEG

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—William Kessler, eighteen, who has had one leg amputated at the knee, is walking on crutches from New York city to San Francisco. He called at the Mayor's office here to inquire as to the correct route. Kessler claimed he could walk fifty miles a day of twelve hours. He said he was five days ahead of his schedule. He expected to make the entire distance of 4,387 miles from the metropolis to the coast in fifty-three days. He is seeking a world's record in this coast to coast trip.

DINED AT 3-CENT CAFE, BUT IT COST HIM $20

Cleveland, O., Oct. 17.—Peter Eshon wanted to get a full meal, and when he spied a restaurant with a sign on the window conveying the intelligence that it was a "three-cent" restaurant, he went and ate all he wanted. When he left he put three cents on the counter. The owner of the place disagreed, and Peter returned the compliment, starting a near riot.

"FIGHTING PARSONS" ARE NOT GONE BY ANY MEANS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 17.—The "fighting parson" is not yet gone. Twenty ministers of the Methodist church, attending a conference here, held a reunion of men who had fought in the Civil War. "Fighting it is made me a better Baptist preacher," one old-time warrior asserted.

"Our fathers pushed Christianity into this country at the point of their bayonets; we saved its ideals in 1861 with cannon and sword, and now our sons are upholding it with their rifles on the western front," said another grizzled veteran of Grant's armies.

SEEK TO INCREASE STREET CAR FARES

The Connecticut Valley Street Railway Company, operating cars in Greenfield, Deerfield and adjoining towns, asked the Public Service Commission for authority to increase its rates. It proposes to reduce initial zones for which a 5-cent fare is charged from three to two. For each additional zone 2 cents will be charged, as against the 3 cents now asked. Workmen's tickets, 100 for $2.25, each ticket good for one zone, will be sold. Coupon tickets, 50 coupons for 80 cents, and 50 coupons for $2.25, will also be sold.

NEW KIND OF SWINDLE IS WORKED IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 17.—A new kind of swindle has been discovered here. H. T. Hinton, clerk in a pharmacy, received a telephone call requesting that a quart of ice cream and ten cents worth of aspirin tablets be sent to No. 4311 Page Boulevard, and that change for a $10 bill be sent with the goods. A boy was sent out and a man on the front steps of the address given gave the boy a worthless ten dollar check and took $9.90 in change. The man is unknown to the occupants of the house.

JACKSON COLLEGE HAS RECORD ENROLLMENT

The increased size of the student body has made necessary an additional dormitory and the Delta Upsilon House of Tufts has been leased for that purpose. The Knight House, which was operated last year as a co-operative house, will continue under similar management.

An Important Message Regarding the Sugar Shortage

THERE'S an old saying "It's an ill wind that blows no good!"

Everyone has been inconvenienced more or less by the sugar shortage. Many people still rely entirely on sugar for sweetening and, of course, are inconvenienced.

But thousands of housewives have not only found "a way out" during the present shortage, but have learned a thing or two that will stick forever—sugar or no sugar.

Brer Rabbit real New Orleans Molasses not only sweetens like sugar, but it gives a rich, delicious flavor to all cooking and baking.

Yet Brer Rabbit is not a "substitute" for sugar. It is practically sugar itself. Like sugar it is made from sugar cane and contains a large amount of real sugar.

Is it not quite natural that resourceful housewives have turned to Brer Rabbit Molasses during the sugar shortage?

For the Children

Gold Label Brer Rabbit Molasses gives to the child the elements the young growing body needs. Brer Rabbit is absolutely pure, wholesome, palatable and strengthening. Doctors will tell you what molasses and bread means to children.

Besides, it saves sugar, cuts the butter bill.

There are Two Kinds of Brer Rabbit Molasses

Both are Absolutely Pure New Orleans Molasses

GOLD LABEL Brer Rabbit is mild in flavor, light in color and is delicious for table use—as a spread for pancakes, waffles, biscuits, etc. It is especially fine for cooking, baking and candy making.

FRENCH SHOW APPRECIATION OF U. S. AID

Paris Chamber of Commerce Publishes Statement of Nation's Gratefulness

Keen and grateful appreciation of what the United States has done to aid the allies in the present war is contained in a statement on this country's participation, issued by the Paris Chamber of Commerce. Under four heads—military, naval, economic and relief—the activities of America are summed up, and generous acknowledgment made of the material and moral support afforded by this nation's entry into the war.

President Wilson, several times quoted, is characterized as "worthy successor to George Washington, one whose name will be recorded in history as the liberator of the American people's conscience." It is pointed out that the President, in his famous message to Congress in April, 1917, "expressed the feelings of the whole nation," and stress is laid on the fact that this country cast in its lot with the European allies "without seeking either material advantages by so doing, or any territorial gains."

Throughout, the document is expressive of friendliness, gratitude and wonder at the resourcefulness of the United States in producing men, money and supplies.

ARMY GROWTH TRACED.

Under the heading "Military Effort" the growth of the American Army is traced from 200,000 in April, 1917, to a prospective 5,000,000 by next Spring. The transportation of 300,000 men a month overseas, the brilliant fighting of those who had taken their places to the field, and the tremendous output of munitions are emphasized.

Should it become necessary," continues the bulletin, "the American forces could be increased, as long as the war lasts, by conscription; this would give in a month almost as many men as Germany can raise in a year."

Our naval assistance is declared to be "equally valuable and efficacious." In April, 1917, our war fleet totalled 2,000,000 tons. It now exceeds 5,000,000 tons. Construction of submarine destroyers, sea planes and merchant ships, the introduction of concrete ships and the conversion of German interned vessels into American craft, are all noted. The statement adds that by the New Year the United States fleet will total 7,700,000 tons, and a year later will be nearly double that amount, and continues:

"It assures the mastery of the seas for the allies, which is indispensable for a victorious conclusion to the war."

Under economic and financial assistance are grouped the sending of food to the allies, the "voluntary restrictions" made by civilians, the exports of raw and manufactured supplies of all kinds, as well as loans to the allied governments and the Liberty Loans raised in this country.

TRIBUTE TO RED CROSS.

Tribute to the American Red Cross and other organizations which have cared for the wounded, supplied food and clothing to refugees and prisoners of war, and arranged for the adoption of French war orphans, includes a statement of work accomplished. Nearly 60,000 orphans have been "adopted" by American godparents under the auspices of 200 different committees formed for the purpose.

The bulletin sums up:

"Such is—taken as a whole—the magnificent and disinterested effort made by the great overseas republic. It is giving the German government—which only yesterday pretended to consider it a mere 'bluff'—a great deception, causing it already to foresee that its dream of world-wide domination is doomed to failure. Not it is especially to the allies, who have been struggling the last four years against Germanic aggression, that the co-operation of the United States comes as a great consolation and comfort, not only for what it brings at present, but also for what it promises in future, when so much ruin will have to be restored, so much misery relieved, so much life renewed.

QUOTES PRESIDENT WILSON.

"It inspires them with fresh energy to carry through the work of liberation they have undertaken. Mr. Andre Tardieu, the chief commissary of the Franco-American Affaires de Guerre, whose indefatigable energy and activity have achieved such brilliant results, eloquently defined this task in the speech he made in Paris, on Independence Day, saying:

"'I ask you at this hour, when all free nations are fraternizing in the same Ideal, to recall with me the never-to-be-forgotten maxims with which President Wilson defined our aim, our duty and our right:

"'Our aim? To make the world a fit place to live in. Our duty? To put forth our strength, our utmost strength, for the triumph of Liberty. Our right? To insist upon having for any peace conversations a party whose word may be relied upon.

"'Until this aim has been attained, this duty fulfilled, this right safeguarded, by all of us, only one rule, one motto, can be ours: We are in the war and we must win it.'"

ROOSEVELT AND SUNDAY BOOM LOAN DRIVE

Providence, Oct. 17.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt will be hustled to Newport today, where a naval parade will be held in his honor, and back to the Billy Sunday tabernacle at a speed that will make the doughty colonel sit up and take notice.

According to arrangements, Governor Beeckman will meet the colonel at the station with his automobile, which will break all speed records to Fox Point, where the Shark, the Governor's speedy boat, will be waiting. The Shark is the speediest craft in these parts and can make Newport in forty-five minutes.

The colonel will jump from the boat to the landing and is expected to hotfoot it to the naval grounds, where the boys in uniform will be at attention. Possibly a hurried lunch will follow at the Governor's house when the party will again board the good ship "Shark" and plow the waters of Narragansett Bay in order to reach the Billy Sunday tabernacle at 4 o'clock, where the colonel and Billy Sunday will talk Liberty Loan to the biggest assemblage of people ever housed under one roof in Rhode Island.

At the tabernacle those attending are promised novelties not on the program. It is intimated that society leaders from Newport and this city will enter the spirit of the occasion and act as boost salesmen and help to put the loan "over." Mrs. Beeckman, it is whispered in society, will be on hand with other women of financial and social consequence, and it is intimated the women are going to do their share.

Billy Sunday is known to be saving his energy for tonight and will cut loose and frame words that will not be misconstrued. Billy Sunday has a habit of arguing when he refers to the Kaiser that is considered a "corncracker." He admits that he will cut loose with all his ammunition and the stage will be set for a rousing Liberty Loan drive.

"Finally, Brethren"

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE.

With Apologies to Kipling.

WHEN the world's last monarch is buried
And his bones have crumbled to dust;
When the roar and the smoke of the battle
Have passed with the cannon that rust,
We shall rest, and, Faith, we shall need it;
Lie down for an eon or two,
Nor call nor commotion shall rouse us,
For the voice of the Living is few.

And then, in that land of Elysium,
With the souls of the heroes who died
The World to make safer for freedom,
Again we'll be tested and tried;
And the questions with which they will ply us
When the dawn of the Judgment is nigh
Will be: "What did YOU do in the struggle?"—
And: "How many bonds did YOU buy?"

SOUTH END GIRL IN GARDEN CONTEST

Cellars stored with good things, jars and closets filled to bursting, and the family well protected against the advances in price of all provisions during the coming Winter, is the story told by hundreds of the amateur war gardeners, who took up the spade and planted seeds because the Government told them that they must raise crops and conserve food.

Mabel Haynes of Harrison avenue was one of these amateur gardeners. She tells her story in the letter that she has written for the Boston AMERICAN War Garden Competition. She hopes to win one of the prizes offered by Reginald W. Bird, chairman of the state food production committee. The first is $25; the second, $15 and the third $10.

All who desire to enter this contest must have their letters in the AMERICAN office on or before November 1. The contest closes on that day.

Mabel Haynes, No. 919 Harrison avenue:

There was a large field near where I lived this last Summer in Dorchester and many of the people around took small plots of land and roughly fenced it off.

In April I also took a small plot of land and planted potatoes, tomatoes, corn, beans and cabbage. I harvested my crops the first of last month and sold to a friend of my mother's $2.67 of what I raised. The rest we have kept for ourselves.

Mamma and I have canned six quart jars of string beans and a quarter of a bushel of tomatoes. The rest of my crops are in a nice warm place down the cellar, waiting for us to eat them. Don't you think I did pretty well for one who has never farmed before? Next year I hope to do still better, as I know a little more about gardening.

TRUSTEES HOLD M. E. CHURCH FUND

Supreme Court Decides Issue in Bromfield Street $400,000 Property Sale

The $400,000 realized from the sale of the Bromfield Street Church property in 1913 is, according to the opinion of a majority of the Supreme Judicial Court, to remain in the control of trustees appointed by the court under the deed of William Hall Jackson, who bought the land for the church in 1806, and the fund must be applied to the use and benefit of the society in accordance with the rules and discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church of America.

The litigation, which has lasted five years, arose out of the merger of the Bromfield Street Church with the Tremont Street Church. This union, which practically made but one society, was ordered by the higher authorities of the Methodist Church, whose action was disputed by some of the members of the Bromfield Street society, which claimed exclusive control of the fund. These dissenters desired to establish a "Church of All Nations" at a cost of $175,000, and to use the income of the balance of the fund for the support of the new enterprise.

The position taken by the contestants was that the Jackson deed was an ordinary business transaction, and did not create a public charitable trust, as has since been decided by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

The device consists of a large box containing shallow vats of kerosene. The box is dragged across the field by a team and the grasshoppers, disturbed at their pastime of devouring the alfalfa, jump up and light in the kerosene. They die where they fall.

GERMANY SOUGHT TO BALK SALE OF U. S. WARSHIPS TO GREECE

WOULD BRING ON BIG WAR, WANGENHEIM TOLD MORGENTHAU

I still possess this document, as it came from the Austrian embassy, and General von Sanders' name appears with the numerals "15" against it. I must admit, however, that "the 15th corps" did bring him pretty well to the foot of the table.

But the German embassy did not let the matter rest there, for afterward Wangenheim called on Pallavicini, and discussed the matter with considerable liveliness.

"If Liman von Sanders represents the Kaiser, whom do you represent?" Pallavicini asked Wangenheim. The argument was a good one, as the ambassador is always regarded as the alter ego of his sovereign.

"It is not customary," continued the Marquis, "for an Emperor to have two representatives at the same court."

After all, this proceeding did not grow to international importance. Von Sanders' personal vanity had led him to betray a diplomatic secret; he was not merely a drill master who had been sent to instruct the Turkish army; he was precisely what he had claimed to be—the personal representative of the Kaiser. The Kaiser had selected him just as he had selected Wangenheim, as an instrument for working his will in Turkey.

REVEALED TO KITCHENER.

I reported this dinner incident to my government as indicating Germany's growing ascendancy in Turkey and I presume the other ambassadors likewise reported it to their governments. The American military attache, Major John R. M. Taylor, who was present, attributed the utmost significance to it. A month after the occurrence he and Captain McCauley, commanding the Scorpion, the American stationnaire at Constantinople, had lunch at Cairo with Lord Kitchener. The luncheon was a small one, only the Americans, Lord Kitchener, his sister and an aide making up the party. Major Taylor related this incident, and Kitchener displayed much interest.

"What do you think it signifies?" asked Kitchener.

"I think it means," Major Taylor said, "that when the big war comes, Turkey will probably be the ally of Germany. If she is not in direct alliance, I think that she at least will mobilize on the line of the Caucasus and thus divert three Russian armycorps from the European theatre of operations."

Kitchener "thought for a moment and then said, 'I agree with you.'"

And now for several months we had before our eyes this spectacle of the Turkish army, actually under the control of Germany.

Meanwhile I had other evidences that Germany was playing her part in Turkish politics. In June the relations between Greece and Turkey approached the breaking point. The Treaty of London (May 30, 1913) had left Greece in possession of the islands of Chios and Mitylene. A reference to the map discloses the strategic importance of these island.

MENACE TO TURKEY.

The racial situation made their continued retention by Greece a constant military danger to Turkey. Their population was Greek and had been Greek since the days of Homer. Its coast of Asia Minor itself was Greek in more than half the population of Smyrna. Turkey's greatest Mediterranean seaport, was Greek; in its industries, its commerce, and its culture the city was so predominantly Greek that the Turks usually referred to it as giaour Izmir—"infidel Smyrna."

Since Germany had her own plans for Asia Minor, inevitably the Greeks in this region formed a barrier to Pan-German aspirations. As long as this region remained Greek, it formed a natural obstacle to Germany's road to the Persian Gulf, precisely as did Serbia. Any one who has read even cursorily the literature of Pan-Germanism is familiar with the peculiar method which German publicists have advocated for dealing with populations that stand in Germany's way. That is by deportation. The violent shifting of whole peoples from one part of Europe to another, as though they were so many herds of cattle, has for years been part of the Kaiser's plans for German expansion. Acting under Germany's prompting, Turkey now began to apply this principle of deportation to her Greek subjects in Asia Minor.

The events that followed foreshadowed the policy adopted in the Armenian massacres. The Turkish officials pounced upon the Greeks, herded them in groups and marched them toward the ships.

BOYCOTT ESTABLISHED.

An official boycott was established against all Christians, not only in Asia Minor, but in Constantinople, but this boycott did not discriminate against the Jews, who have always been more popular with the Turks than have the Christians. The officials particularly requested Jewish merchants to put signs over their doors indicating their nationality and trade—such as "Abraham the Jew, tailor," "Isaac the Jew, shoemaker," and the like. I looked upon this boycott as illustrating the topsyturvy national organization of Turkey, for here we had a nation engaging in a commercial boycott against its own subjects.

This procedure against the Greeks not improperly aroused my indignation. I did not have the slightest suspicion at that time that the Germans had instigated these deportations, but I looked upon them merely as an outburst of Turkish ferocity and chauvinism. By this time I knew Talaat well; I saw him nearly every day, and he used to discuss practically every phase of international relations with me. I objected vigorously to his treatment of the Greeks.

Talaat explained his national policy: these different blows in the Turkish Empire, he said, had always compelled against Turkey; because of the instability of these alien populations. Therefore he proposed to Turkify Smyrna and the adjoining islands. Already 40,000 Greeks had left and he asked me to urge American business houses to employ only Turks. He said that the accounts of violence and murder had been greatly exaggerated and suggested that a commission be sent to investigate. "They wanna come over to Chicago," Talaat said. Finally Mr. Mallet, the British ambassador, told me. True enough, when this commission did bring in its report it exculpated Turkey.

The Greeks in Turkey had one great advantage over the Armenians, for there was such a thing as a Greek government.

AN ACT OF WAR.

The Turks knew that these deportations would precipitate a war with Greece; in fact, they welcomed such a war and were preparing for it. So enthusiastic were the Turkish people that they had raised money by popular subscription and had purchased a Brazilian dreadnaught which was then under construction in England. The government had ordered also a second dreadnaught in England, and several submarines and destroyers in France.

Such was the situation when, early in June, I received a most agitated visitor. This was Djemal Pasha, the Turkish Minister of Marine and one of the three men who then dominated the Turkish Empire. The American government, he said, was negotiating with Greece for the sale of two battleships, the Idaho and the Mississippi. He urged that I should immediately move to prevent any such sale. His attitude was that of a suppliant; he begged, he implored that I should act.

The fact that Greece and Turkey were practically on the verge of war, said Djemal, really made the sale of the ships an unneutral act. Still, if the transaction were purely a commercial one, Turkey would like a chance to bid. "We will pay more than Greece," he added. He ended with a powerful plea that I should at once cable my government about the matter, and this I promised to do.

Evidently the clever Greeks had turned the tables on their enemy. Turkey had rather too boldly advertised her intention of attacking Greece as soon as she had received her dreadnaughts. Both the ships for which Greece was now negotiating were immediately available for battle. The Idaho and Mississippi were not indispensable ships for the American navy; they could not take their place in the first line of battle; they were powerful enough, however, to drive the whole Turkish navy from the Aegean. Evidently the Greeks did not intend politely to postpone the impending war until the Turkish dreadnaughts had been finished, but to attack as soon as they received these American ships.

PROTEST GROUNDLESS.

Djemal's point, of course, had no legal validity. However great the threat of war might be, Turkey and Greece were still actually at peace. Clearly Greece had just as much right to purchase warships in the United States as Turkey had to purchase them in Brazil or England.

But Djemal was not the only statesman who attempted to prevent the sale; the German ambassador displayed the keenest interest. Several days after Djemal's visit Wangenheim and I were riding in the hills north of Constantinople. Wangenheim began to talk about the Greeks, to whom he displayed a violent antipathy; about the chances of war and the projected sale of American warships. He made a long argument about the sale, his reasoning being precisely the same as Djemal's—a fact which aroused my suspicion that he had himself coached Djemal for his interview with me.

"Just look at the dangerous precedent you are establishing," said Wangenheim. "It is not unlikely that the United States may some time find itself in a position like Turkey's today. Suppose that you were on the brink of war with Japan; then England could sell a fleet of dreadnaughts to Japan. How would the United States like that?"

And then he made a statement which indicated what really lay back of his protest. I have thought of it many times in the last three years. The scene is indelibly impressed on my mind. There we sat on our horses; the silent ancient forest of Belgrade lay around us, while in the distance the Black Sea glistened in the afternoon sun. Wangenheim suddenly became quiet and extremely earnest. He looked in my eyes and said:

DUPLICITY DISCLOSED.

"I don't think that the United States realizes what a serious matter this is. The sale of these ships might be the cause that would bring on a European war."

This conversation took place as June 12; this was about six weeks before the conflagration broke out. Wangenheim knew perfectly well that Germany was rushing preparations for this great conflict, and he knew that preparations were not yet entirely complete. Like all the German ambassadors, Wangenheim had received instructions not to let any crisis arise that would precipitate war until all these preparations had been finished.

He was simply attempting to influence me at that moment to gain a little more time for Germany.

He went so far as to ask me to cable personally to the President explain the seriousness of the situation, and to call his attention to the telegrams that had gone to the State Department on the proposed sale of the ships. I regarded his suggestion as an impertinent one and declined to act upon it.

To Djemal and the other Turkish officials who kept pressing me I suggested that their ambassador in Washington should take up the matter directly with the President. They acted on this advice, but the Greeks again got ahead of them. At 2 o'clock, June 22, the Greek Charge d'Affaires at Washington and Commander Tsoudias of the Greek Navy, athletic and noted distance runner, called upon the President and arranged the sale. As they left the an operation for appendicitis was still all these preparations had been finished.

As the managing editors who were elected this year have been entered active service, it has been necessary to select a new staff, and John H. Rafferty, '20, of Cambridge, has been chosen as editor-in-chief; Frederick A. Cosgrove '21, of Medford, as business manager; and Gavin A. Taylor '21, of Maynard, as circulation manager. Other members will be added to the staff before the publication of the first issue, which will appear on October 23.

WANT FARMERS' IDEAS ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

What do Bay State farmers think of the plan to continue daylight saving through the Winter and Spring? Secretary Wilfred Wheeler of the State Board of Agriculture would like a general expression of opinion from the rural residents. It may be some farmers but not enough to constitute a general expression. It is suggested that the farmers should take action and report to the State Board. In many farmers might write their views to the board on this continuation scheme.

FOOD AND SMOKE IMPRESSED A DOUGHBOY

Paris, Sept. 26.—An American doughboy asked to tell what, during the fighting at Chateau-Thierry in which he participated, impressed him most, thought deeply a moment and then answered:

"I was fishergrasted, of course, by the rain of German machine gun bullets and was surprised when I turned ever what I supposed was a dead German and found he was only playing possum, and I was some excited when I tumbled into a pit on top of two dead German snipers, but the climax of it all came just as we had finished mopping up the town from which we had just driven the Huns.

"I was faint with hunger, and thirst, and was wondering how long it would be before I could find the 'makings' when what should come along but a Y. M. C. A. truck with hot chocolate, coffee and best of all —cigarettes.

"My first hot bite, hot drink and a real smoke after the smash at Chateau-Thierry—I never will forget 'em."

Loads of Lingerie Choke London Laundries

London, Oct. 17.—Paradox of the war number 1,376,549.

One way of having coal and materials is by sending fewer clothes to the laundry, and a sort of rationing system may be evolved. The embargo will apply to such luxuries as blouses, lace collars, silk underwear, elaborate lingerie.

And one of the reasons why such embargo is necessary: The girl munition workers, who are making more money than they ever dreamed possible, are sending mountains of their finery to the laundry each week.

SENATE HALVES TAX RETURNS PENALTIES

Washington, Oct. 17.—Consideration of the income and profits taxes in the revenue bill was taken up by the Senate Finance Committee. These sections were temporarily passed when the committee went through the bill, as it was anticipated that the interest contents would be on these provisions.

Not only are the war profits and excess profits taxes which the House put in the bill unsatisfactory to Secretary McAdoo and Treasury Department experts, but they are not liked by a number of the Senators, who probably will insist upon changing them.

The penalty for making a tardy return of tax statements was cut from 50 per cent. to 25 per cent. by the committee and the penalty for making fraudulent return was reduced from 100 per cent. to 50 per cent.

HUNGRY LONDON MUST PAY TAXES ON MEALS

London, Oct. 17.—Meals costing more than five shillings will be taxed two pence—four cents—on the shilling, a tax of one-sixth, under the new luxury taxes.

It is possible to get a good meal, if not a dinner, for five shillings or less; but the prices of food have advanced so much that restaurant keepers do not consider that the five shilling rate is quite fair. A five shilling or dollar and a quarter meal is far from a luxury, they admit.

PROHIBITION IN OHIO TO AFFECT ABOUT 13,000 MEN

Columbus, O., Oct. 17.—Estimates given out here are to the effect that about 13,000 men who have been working in the liquor business in Ohio will be thrown out of work and will have to seek other employment when the Government dry order goes into effect next July. State and local employment bureaus say they will be able to handle all the men and give them suitable positions in other lines of work.

Do You Think There is No Competition?

If anyone thinks there is no competition amongst the big packers he ought to go through a day's work with Swift & Company.

Let him begin at the pens when the live stock comes in; let him try to buy a nice bunch of fat steers quietly and at his own price, without somebody's bidding against him.

Let him realize the scrupulous care taken at the plant that not one thing is lost or wasted in order that costs may be held to a minimum.

Let him go up into the office where market reports are coming in,—and reports of what other concerns are doing.

Let him watch the director of the Swift Refrigerator fleet, maneuvering it over the face of the country like a fleet of battleships at sea.

Let him take a trip with a Swift & Company salesman and try to sell a few orders of meat.

Let him stay at a branch house for an hour or two and see the retail meat dealers drive their bargains to the last penny as they shop around among the packers' branch houses, the wholesale dealers, and the local packing plants.

And then, when the day is over, let him have half an hour in the accounting department, where he can see for himself on what small profits the business is done. (Less than 4 cents on each dollar of sales.)

If he still thinks there is no competition in the meat business it will be because he wants to think so.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Those who desire to turn their gray, faded hair dark and glossy can do so by using the following simple recipe:

To a pint of water add a small box of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and a half ounce of bay rum. Let stand for a few hours, or boil for a few minutes, to make a dark tea. Apply to the hair with a sponge or soft brush, taking one small strand at a time; the gray hair disappears after the first application.

Don't worry if your hair is not perfectly even, as one application will not do the work. Two applications are usually sufficient, but it may be necessary to use it once a week for a few weeks to get the desired effect.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

SPORTS TO TOUCH OFF BIG DRIVE

Week of November 11-18 Designated for Carnival—Seek $170,500,000 for War Fund

By H. W. LANIGAN.

During the week of November 11-18 sport will make a furious drive in the interests of the war charities.

The amount sought is $170,500,000, and the splendid organizations selected to be the beneficiaries are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., National Catholic War Council, which includes the Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, American Library Association and the Salvation Army.

The program, as planned, will mark the greatest demonstration of sporting activities ever held in this country, all the events will be carried out on a lavish scale and it is confidently expected that the leading sporting men will join in the football drive by playing games between traditional rivals with elevens selected from the A. E. F.

A Harvard-Yale game is most urgently desired. Also an Army-Navy battle. Also a Princeton-Pennsylvania skirmish, so as to gather in the money in that section.

Boxing, too, is to do its bit and Jamie Coffroth, noted San Francisco promoter, has been placed in charge of this end of the program. He plans to put on a massive show in Madison Square Garden, New York, as well as spicy performances in Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New Orleans and all other boxing centres.

The country's leading golfers will also get into action. Cornelius J. Sullivan of Garden City, will arrange the matches.

In conducting the college sports, the committee, in addition to William Roper of Princeton, chairman, embraces "Big Bill" Edwards and Parke H. Davis, also of Princeton; William T. Reid, jr., also of Princeton, and of Harvard — Cumnock captained the Crimson champions in 1910 eleven; Herbert L. Pratt of Amherst; William Langford of Trinity; Brink Thorne and John Cates of Yale; John C. Bell of Pennsylvania; Alonzo A. Stagg of Chicago; Dr. William Lambeth of Virginia, and John W. Heisman of Georgia Tech.

Julian Curtiss of Yale will be Treasurer of the committee; Walter Camp will represent the navy, and Dr. J. E. Sayer the army.

Harvard's Naval Team Embraces Host of Old School Stars

Seventy-eight student sailors have already registered for Harvard's football eleven. Registration for the army team fell below expectations due to a heavy cut in the enrollment books.

Already it is assured that Harvard's naval team will be a strong one. Bobby Hoffman, quarterback on last Fall's Infantal Harvard eleven, is on deck. He has for a co-laborer, Butterfield, who showed at the pivotal position on last year's Freshman machine.

Other star gridiron men who enrolled are L. Aleta, ex-Boston College backfield performer; Bob Miller, Percy Colgate and Forcoran, wing man from Catholic University; Irving Conlon, one of Exeter's best bets last season and Woburn High's old all-round hero; McDonald, former captain of Chelsea High; Ruggo, ex-English High.

Hunnemann, ex-captain of Noble & Greenough; George Fuller, Brighton High; former pilot; Goldstein of Springfield High, Walter Whalen of Roxbury Latin; Steigman, New York University; Walter Murphy, Lynn Classical's former crack end; Charley O'Brien of High School of Commerce; D. Cullinson, Donald Chisholm and Norman Haskell, three former Melrose High topnotchers; Frankie Wing of Boston Latin; Jack Cheney, Mt. Union fullback, and Jack Jurman of East Boston High.

INGRAM ALMOST READY TO GET BACK IN TOGS

Annapolis, Oct. 17.—Word has been received at the Naval Academy that Captain Ingram of the battleship is recovering from his attack of Spanish influenza and will return to his studies in a few days. It is not expected, however, that he will be able to take part in Saturday's game with Penn, but he will be on the bench.

Several "fits" patients returned to the line-up, and Coach Dodo put the squad through some strenuous work, ending with a half-hour scrimmage.

CORBETT'S CORNER

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

This is the eighth chapter of a series which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning his great fight with James J. Jeffries in 1900. In this series of articles Mr. Corbett reveals to the public, for the first time, some of the dramatic features of that fight which, up to this time, were known only to his intimates.

Just about one second after that blow hit my legs seemed to lose all the power that was in them; they didn't seem able to bear up the weight of my body. A feeling of great nausea came over me and everything got black before my eyes. I felt for a second or more that I was going to topple over— but fortune favored me.

Jeff, instead of standing off and fighting me at long range, rushed me. As he came close I grabbed him and clinched. He held me so he saw the saving grade for me. I continued to hold until I felt a little steadier in the legs. Jeff, frantic in his efforts to land on me again, tried his best to shake me off as quickly as possible. But it took him a long time to do it.

As we broke from the clinch Jeff stepped back and began to measure me with another pile-driver. But I went in at him and left-jabbed in an effort to make him think that nothing serious had happened to me. Then I clinched again. I was recuperating rapidly from the effects of that awful punch, and as I held Jeff in the second clinch I began kidding him, hoping to make him think that I was in as good a fighting condition as ever.

Jeff broke loose from the second clinch and then started after me, but he was careful to keep out of clinching range. But the danger point for me had passed. Almost as suddenly as the nausea had come over me it passed away. The strength and the power in my legs came back quickly, and as the round ended I was back in first-class fighting fettle.

That punch, damaging as it had been, really sent me into the next round fighting with greater spirit and great confidence than I had shown in the other rounds. Always there lurked in my mind the thought: "Can I stand up under one of Jeff's sledge hammer blows?" The question had been answered in the affirmative in that third round.

As I went back to my corner after that session of fighting, I felt that my condition was sufficiently perfect to enable me to survive any storm that might blow up that night in my fight with Jeffries.

But I reckoned without a certain left hand punch to the point of the chin.

I came out for the fourth full of confidence. Jeff all along had been allowing his attack at my mid-section. He had landed several times earlier in the fight —but never with force. Now he got home a pile-driver in that third, and when it failed to flatten me it made me groggy. I could take any amount of hammering in that spot—and still come back for more.

TIGERS WITH 24 MEN IN SERVICE LEAD BIG LEAGUES

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Recent claims that the Cleveland club led American League clubs with eighteen stars in its service flag, all men of them representing players in the army, caused President P. B. Johnson to ask each of the eight clubs in the league to give the number of its men in the service.

The head of the league announced that the Detroit club was the first to respond, with an official list of twenty-four players in the army and navy—seventeen in the former and seven in the latter—and a manager going overseas for the Knights of Columbus to promote athletics.

Ten Years Ago in Sport

Jimmy Walsh, the crack Boston lightweight, has agreed to meet Digger Stanley at the Armory Club, in the event of Digger winning his match next Monday night at the National Sporting Club, Lenox.

* * *

The same old dope, comparing the fighters of to-day with those in the "good old days" was in vogue in 1908 with the same line of chatter we hear today. A few excerpts from it, written at that time—"Set back the fighters of forty ten or twelve years and where would they be? Imagine Battling Nelson in the ring with Jack McAuliffe, Joe Gans with George McFadden; or Abe Attell in the ring with Terry McGovern. What would Young Corbett do to Midland in the days when Charley Mitchell was in his prime? There's only one champion who competes with former champs—his name is Papke. The game has gone to the dogs since commercialism has displaced glory. The men of old fought for the love of fighting. Imagine John L. Sullivan demanding $30,000 for his end, win, lose or draw."

* * *

Owen Moran, the little English crack, sat at a moving picture show yesterday and watched seven of the rounds of his recent 23-round fight with Abe Attell. Once when Moran sent Attell whizzing through the ropes and the seconds were seen to run around the ring to shove Abe back, Moran in life, became excited and yelled: "Leave him fall. Ah 'im fall, you've got no right to 'old 'im when 'E'ive knocked 'im hout of the ring."

* * *

Marvin Hart, accompanied by his trainer, arrived in town and says he expects to win over Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Armory next Tuesday night. Marvin says he intends to go after the leading lights in case he defeats the big twin. He is especially desirous of getting Kid McCoy to agree to a match.

* * *

Kid McCoy didn't knock out Jim Stewart in their bout at New York last night for the simple reason he was seldom able to get in the vicinity of his foe. In the first round McCoy cracked big Jim in the stomach, flooring him. It was a foot race from then on. Before the fight Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and the Kid pulled off their "goat-getting" stunts and Stewart was whipped before the scrap started. Tom Sharkey, after the fight, challenged McCoy.

* * *

Leach Cross and Packy McFarland are both in strict training for their coming six-round fight at the Paramount A. C. This will be Packy's first appearance in the vicinity of New York and the fans are anxious to see how great a fighter he is. (Old Packy slow them how good he was? Well give you the answer next week.)

JACK McDONALD STARTS WORK WITH B. U. SQUAD

Boston University's S. A. T. C. football team has secured the services of Jack McDonald as coach. He started starting on his new duties today. Captain Alex Gasser and Brick O'Hara are Boston University's two best bets, though some of the "green" men give every indication of developing into sturdy performers.

McDonald will continue drilling the Watertown High School squad. He is said he will be able to fill his double duties acceptably.

SPORTS TO TOUCH OFF BIG DRIVE

Week of November 11-18 Designated for Carnival—Seek $170,500,000 for War Fund

By H. W. LANIGAN.

During the week of November 11-18 sport will make a furious drive in the interests of the war chest.

The amount sought is $170,500,000, and the splendid organizations selected to be the beneficiaries are the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., National Catholic War Council, which includes the Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Board, War Camp Community Service, American Library Association and the Salvation Army.

The program, as planned, will mark the greatest demonstration of sporting activities ever held in this country. All the events will be carried out on a lavish scale and it is confidently expected that the leading universities will join in the football drive by playing games between traditional rivals with eleven selected from the S. A. T. C.

A Harvard-Yale game is most urgently desired, while an Army-Navy battle. Also a Princeton-Pennsylvania skirmish, so as to gather in the money in that section.

Boxing, too, is to do its bit and James Coffroth, noted San Francisco promoter, has been placed in charge of this end of the program. He plans to put on a massive show in Madison Square Garden, New York, as well as spicy performances in Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New Orleans and all other boxing centres.

The country's leading golfers will also get into action. Cornelius J. Sullivan of Garden City, will arrange the matches.

In conducting the college sports, the committee, in addition to William Roper of Princeton, as chairman, embraces "Big Bill" Edwards and Parke H. Davis, also of Princeton; William F. Garcelon and Arthur Cumnock of Harvard — Cumnock captained the Crimson gridiron eleven in 1893; Herbert L. Pratt of Amherst; William Langford of Trinity; Brink Thorne and John Cates of Yale; John C. Bell of Pennsylvania; Alonzo A. Stagg of Chicago; Dr. William Lambeth of Virginia, and John W. Heisman of Georgia Tech.

Julian Curtiss of Yale will be Treasurer of the committee. Walter Camp will represent the navy, and Dr. J. E. Rayerdy the army.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 17.—La Princeton, best trotter in Walter Cox's stable, defeated St. Frisco, driven by Pop Geers, in straight heats in the 2:07 class for all trot at Lakewood Park. The son of San Francisco reeled off his miles 2:02, 2:04¼, and 2:02¼, but he also piloted Jeanette Speed to victory in the special trot, while McMahon scored a double in the 2:12 and the 2:07 pace.

The board of health rigidly enforced the rule in regard to wearing gauze coverings for the face, as a precaution against influenza, and no one was allowed to stay on the grounds without the mask.

Harvard's Naval Team Embraces Host of Old School Stars

Seventy-eight student sailors have already registered for Harvard's football eleven. Registration for the army team fell below expectations due to a lukewarm over a display of the enrollment books.

Already it is assured that Harvard's naval football team will be a strong one. Bobby Hoffman, quarterback on last year's International Harvard eleven, is on deck. He has for a co-laborer, Butterfield, who showed in the pivotal position on last year's Freshman machine.

Other Harvard gridiron men who enrolled are L. Aleta, ex-Boston College backfield performer; Bob Miller, former Colgate end; Corcoran, wing man from Catholic University; Lyman Randall, three former Melrose High topnotchers; Frankie Wing of Boston Latin; Jack Cheney, Mt. Union fullback, and Jack Jurman of East Boston High.

Several "flu" patients returned to the line-up and Coach Dobie put the squad through some strenuous work, ending with a half-hour scrimmage.

CORBETT'S CORNER

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

This is the eighth chapter of a series which Mr. Corbett is writing concerning his great fight with James J. Jeffries in 1900. In this series of articles Mr. Corbett reveals to the public for the first time the features of that fight which, up to this time, were known only to his intimates.

Just about one second after that blow hit my legs seemed to lose all the power that was in them; they didn't seem able to bear up the weight of my body. A feeling of great nausea came over me and everything got black before my eyes. I felt for a second or more that I was going to topple over— but fortune favored me.

Jeff, instead of standing off and fighting me at long range, rushed me. As he came close I grabbed him and clinched. Holding to me as he was the saving grace for me. I continued to hold until I felt a little steadier in the legs. Jeff, frantic in his efforts to land on me again, tried his best to shake me off as quickly as possible. But it took him a long time to do it.

As we broke from the clinch Jeff stepped away and began to measure me with another pile-driver. But I went in at him and left-jabbed in an effort to make him think that nothing serious had happened to me. Then I clinched again. I was recuperating rapidly from the effects of that awful punch, and as I held Jeff in the second clinch I began kidding him, hoping to make him think that I was in as good a fighting condition as ever.

Jeff broke loose from the second clinch and then started after me, but he was careful to keep out of clinching range. But the danger point for me had passed, almost as suddenly as the nausea had come over me it passed away. The strength and the power in my legs came back quickly, and as the round ended I was back in first-class fighting fettle.

That punch, damaging as it had been, really sent me into the next round fighting with greater spirit and great confidence than I had shown in the other rounds, I always have further proof of this in the thought: "Can I stand up under one of Jeff's sledge hammer blows?" The question had been answered in the affirmative. I felt that my condition was sufficiently perfect to enable me to survive any storm that might blow up that night in my fight with Jeffries.

But I reckoned without a certain left hand punch to the point of the chin.

I came out for the fourth full of confidence. Jeff all along had been aiming his attack at my mid-section. He had landed several times earlier in the fight —but never with full force. Now he got home a pile-driver in that third, and when it failed to flatten me it made me fear that I could take any amount of hammering in that spot—and still come back for more.

TIGERS WITH 24 MEN IN SERVICE LEAD BIG LEAGUES

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Recent claims that the Cleveland club led American League clubs with its enlisted stars in its service flag, sixteen of them representing players in the army, caused President B. B. Johnson to ask each of the eight clubs in the league to give the number of its men in the service.

The head of the league announced that the Detroit club was the first to respond, with an official list of twenty-four players in the army and navy—seventeen in the former and seven in the latter—and a manager going overseas for the Knights of Columbus to promote athletics.

Ten Years Ago in Sport

Jimmy Walsh, the erack Boston batsman, has agreed to meet Tiger Stanley at the Armory Club, in the event of Digger winning his match next Monday night at the National Sporting Club, London.

* * *

The same old dope, comparing the batters of today with those of the "good old days" was in vogue in 1908 with the same line of chatter we hear today. A few excerpts from a story written at that time—"Set back the fighters of today, and a twelve years ago is where would they be? Imagine Battling Nelson in the ring with Jack McAuliffe, Kid Lavigne, George McFadden, or Abe Attell in the ring with Terry McGovern. What would Young Corbett have done to Kid Iland in the days when Charley Mitchell was in his prime? There's only one answer to these questions, former champs—his name is Papke. The game has gone for the upside reason that commercialism has displaced glory. The men of old fought for the love of fighting. Imagine John L. Sullivan demanding $30,000 for his end, win, lose or draw."

* * *

Owen Moran, the Little English crack, sat at a moving picture show yesterday and watched seven of the rounds of his recent 22-round fight with Abe Attell. Once when Moran sent Attell whizzing through the ropes and the seconds were seen to run around the ring to shove Abe back, Moran in life, became excited and yelled: "Let 'im fall. Id 'im fall, you've got no right to 'old 'im when 'E'v knocked 'im hout of the ring."

* * *

Marvin Hart, accompanied by his trainer, arrived in town and says he expects to win over Jack (Twin) Sullivan at the Armory next Tuesday night. Marvin says he intends to go after the leading lights in case he defeats the big twin. He is especially desirous of getting Kid McCoy to agree to a match.

* * *

Kid McCoy didn't knock out Jim Stewart in their bout at New York last night for the simple reason he was seldom able to get within reach of his foe. In the first round McCoy received a big blow in the stomach, flooring him. It was a foul punch from then on. Before the fight Philadelphia Jack O'Brien said the Kid pulled off their "goat-getting" stunts and Stewart was whipped before the scrap started. Tom Sharkey, after the fight, challenged McCoy.

* * *

Leach Cross and Packy McFarland are both in strict training for their coming six-round fight at the Paramount A. C. This will be Packy's first appearance in the vicinity of his old stamping grounds. It remains to see how great a fighter he is (Old Packy show them how good he was). Well give you the answer next week.)

JACK McDONALD STARTS WORK WITH B. U. SQUAD

Boston University's new T. C. football team has secured the services of Jack McDonald as coach. He planned starting on his new duties today. Captain Alec Gasser and Brick O'Hare are Boston University's two best bets, though some of the "green" men give every indication of developing into sturdy performers.

McDonald will continue drilling the Watertown High School squad. He is confident he will be able to fill his double duties acceptably.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN OCTOBER 17, 1918, BOSTON

Workings of the Initiative and Referendum Plan

Here Is the First of Three Articles Explaining in Detail the Proposed Amendment to the Constitution to Be Voted Upon Next Month

The AMERICAN has been asked to EXPLAIN IN DETAIL the workings of the Initiative and Referendum plan which the Constitutional Convention has advised the voters to ratify at the State election in November.

Most citizens are aware that the Initiative and Referendum is A MEANS WHEREBY THE MAJORITY OF THE VOTERS CAN THEMSELVES ENACT A GOOD MEASURE THAT THE LEGISLATURE HAS PERSISTENTLY REJECTED, AND CAN PREVENT FROM GOING INTO EFFECT A BAD MEASURE THAT THE LEGISLATURE HAS PASSED.

But just how this is to be accomplished under THE DETAILED AND CAREFULLY GUARDED PLAN WHICH THE CONVENTION, AFTER MONTHS OF DEBATE, HAS WORKED OUT is understood by comparatively few as yet, and although every voter will be supplied before election day with a full copy of the proposed amendment, many will lack the patience and many more the technical skill to master the details of a legal document several pages in length. The AMERICAN will accordingly trace in three successive articles the way in which the convention's plan would be applied to each of the three distinct objects that the Initiative and Referendum is designed to secure.

First, TO ENACT BY APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE A LAW WHICH THE LEGISLATURE—USUALLY THE CORPORATION-RULED SENATE—HAS PERSISTENTLY REFUSED TO ENACT, such, for instance, as the forty-eight-hour law killed in this year's Senate. In this case the necessary steps would be these:

1. TEN QUALIFIED VOTERS must get together and DECIDE UPON THE FORM OF THE BILL which they wish to see enacted into law.

2. This draft must be SUBMITTED TO THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL, who, if he finds it properly drawn and not in conflict with the Constitution, will so certify and return it to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

3. The Secretary will PROVIDE BLANK PETITIONS, HEADED BY A DESCRIPTION OF THE MEASURE as it would appear on the ballot, with a list of the ten original signers.

4. The friends of the measure must then obtain THE SIGNATURES OF NOT LESS THAN 20,000 QUALIFIED VOTERS, and return the signed petitions to the Secretary's office not later than the first Wednesday of December. The Secretary will transmit it to the incoming Legislature.

5. The petition must be REFERRED TO A LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE, GIVEN FULL PUBLIC HEARINGS, AND REPORTED UPON TO THE LEGISLATURE WITH THE COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATIONS, AND THEIR REASONS, IN WRITING. The Legislature MAY AMEND THE MEASURE in any manner agreed to by a majority of the ten original signers, and certified by the Attorney-General to be NO MATERIAL CHANGE IN THE ORIGINAL BILL may adopt it either in its original form or as so amended, or may reject it, and, if it sees fit, PROPOSE AN ALTERNATIVE MEASURE to be submitted to the people at the same election.

6. If the measure is rejected by the Legislature, and if its originators are not content either to abide by its rejection or to accept the Legislature's alternative bill if one is offered, THEY MUST OBTAIN 5,000 ADDITIONAL SIGNATURES, after which the Secretary of the Commonwealth will place the question on the ballot for the State election, AND MUST SUPPLY ALL THE VOTERS WITH THE FULL TEXT OF THE MEASURE, THE MAJORITY AND MINORITY REPORTS OF THE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE UPON IT, THE VOTE BY WHICH IT WAS REJECTED IN THE LEGISLATURE, and such other information regarding it, and arguments for and against it, as the Legislature may see fit to order by general law.

7. If a majority of the votes upon the question at the State election are in the affirmative, AND IF THAT MAJORITY IS EQUAL TO 30 PER CENT. OR MORE OF THE TOTAL NUMBER OF BALLOTS CAST AT THE ELECTION, the measure becomes a law just as if it had been enacted by the Legislature and approved by the Governor or passed over his veto.

From this analysis of the amendment it may be clearly seen how foolish, if not positively dishonest, are the arguments of the corporation lawyers who pretend that the effect of the adoption of this Massachusetts plan of the Initiative and Referendum will be to sidestep the Legislature and enact laws by the snap judgment of uninformed voters.

NO ONE WHO SUPPOSES THAT AN UNJUST OR OPPRESSIVE LAW COULD BE RATIFIED BY THE VOTERS OF MASSACHUSETTS UNDER SUCH CONDITIONS OF PUBLICITY AND THOROUGH DEBATE CAN BE A SINCERE BELIEVER IN A GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE.

The AMERICAN will next explain the method proposed by the convention to enable the people to prevent from taking effect an objectionable measure which a controlled or unrepresentative Legislature has attempted to place upon the statute book.

YOU DON'T LIKE THIS AND YOU DON'T LIKE THAT

Have you ever had it put to you just what kind of an atmosphere surrounds the mention of your name in regard to your dislikes?

If you know that every time you let it be known how much you dislike any certain thing it is another plank in a barrier between you and your friend, who knows your feelings, and the barrier is none the less there though the actual circumstances of your dislike be forgotten?

You just "hate cold coffee," you "must have breakfast the moment you get up," you are "not comfortable in a rocking chair," you "cannot eat veal or lamb," and "can't stand a glare in your eyes."

These matters are things which should be known in your own home, where it may be possible to please you, but to be constantly telling it outside is eventually going to get you down as one of the "impossible" kind.

It is best policy to let your friends know that you sincerely dislike any one particular thing.

Just this one particular characteristic has barred many a "particular" person from many a good time, and lost a good friend.

Don't build a fence around yourself.

If We Do Our Utmost

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Keep It Up

IT may be the Kaiser don't know he is licked;
Perhaps he still hopes in his heart
That he'll still have a chance to shoot up all France
And to tear her cathedrals apart.
He may still believe that the world must bow down
To him as its ruler and boss,
And that soon he will reign over a world-wide domain,
But he WON'T when our loan goes across.

IT may be he thinks in his tortuous mind
That, black as the clouds look today,
It will not be long till he gets going strong
And things will be breaking his way.
He may still imagine his Gott will step in
And save his now tottering throne,
But he'll see his mistake when all records we break
In raising our Liberty Loan.

IT isn't so easy to loosen a King
From the notions he always has had.
He can't understand how the scheme he has planned
Can suddenly all turn out bad.
He'll be loath to believe that he's got to step down
From his dominant place on the sphere.
But he'll quickly get wise when he opens his eyes
To the job that we've done over here.

DON'T give him a chance to cling still to a hope
That his fortunes will ever come back.
Keep after him hot, it will cheer him a lot
If ever our efforts grow slack.
Just make it ten billions, and more if you can;
End up the campaign with a whizz;
Lambaste his old throne with the Liberty Loan,
And he'll quit like the dog that he is!

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

INDIAN RIVER CITY, Fla., Oct. 6, 1918.

DEAR K. C. B.—I have just been reading about the Altar of Liberty in peaceful Madison Square, and of the beautiful word tributes spoken there; and of how our patriots, over here, go to that altar and other shrines, where, in the spirit of noble sacrifice, they give, and give all they can, to help pay the price to buy world freedom.

And as I read, a vision came of another altar, which is "over there"; the altar where "Our Boys"—God's noblemen—with the other armies of God's Free Men, are offering the supreme sacrifice of all they have and are for World Liberty. 'Twas then I saw how our small offerings pale, compared with what THEY give, and I wondered what glorious reward is planned for them. And now I see German-ravaged France, and ask, What recompense can pay for the grief and anguish she has borne? The answer comes in these few lines:

Recompense

OH France—though mangled, torn and bleeding now,
Yet loved, and blessed a thousandfold, thou art;
For God hath heard thy sacred spoken vow,
And knows that thou hast nobly done thy part!

FOR recompense, thy greatness shall be known
And glorified by all the world! Thy face
Shall e'er be as a Fleur de Lis new blown!
World-Freedom's Altar shall be thy new name!

THE Altar upon which God's freemen laid
Their lives in holy sacrifice sublime!
Where, as did Christ on Calvary, they paid
The price to buy World-Freedom for all time!

YEA, France, thy shell-torn bosom will be healed,
And this, thy merited reward shall be:
Thine every hallowed, blood-bathed town and field
Shall be the World's Loved Shrine of Liberty.

Stars and Stripes

And now we are all wondering what became of the lady who "Did Not Raise Her Boy to Be a Soldier."

Lots of fellows kick up a great amount of dust on the highway of life without carrying much of a load.

A good many about us appear to have made a mistake in not putting their sad stories on phonograph records.

No heavy man has as hard a time these days as the chap who plays the German villain on the movie reel.

THE SHADED LAMP IS MY OWN JOY

By Winifred Black

DEAR me, what in the world should I do these days if it weren't for the shaded lamp?

It was given to me long ago by one who called me his friend—an honest man and kindly—and for his sake I have always liked it.

But some of the family didn't care for it, and because there was no special place for it and because its color did not harmonize particularly with the other decorations in the room where I wanted to use it, the shaded lamp has not been used very often.

But now that the living room is done over in tan and brown, the yellow lamp, with its soft shaded light, is the very thing.

What It Represents

We have only been using it a few evenings, and already I am wondering how in the world it took me so long to find out about it.

It is made of dull brass, carved simply and of good lines, and the shade, that makes me so happy and contented, is of beaten brass, but soft and subdued and not bright at all.

It looks like a lantern hung in the doorway of some eastern temple, or like the little melonslice of the moon at the first of the month, when there are clouds and a bit of a mist—and it looks like the quiet, friendly gaze of a good friend, and I am most contented with the corner of the room where it stands. And in the daytime, when I am downtown and there is hurry and worry and confusion and things do not go as I wish they would, I think comfortably of the quiet room done in brown and restful tan and of the shaded lamp standing so unobtrusively in its own particular corner, and I am glad it is there, and all the little temporary vexations are as if they were not.

What a comfort something restful and quiet and sure is in this world of clamor and noise and unrest!

I know a deep pool in a deep, brown wood with tall trees standing around, and the trees are reflected in the pool and sometimes they drop their leaves upon the water and sometimes, when the wind blows, the trees bow and wave their branches like kings making a gracious salute, and the calm pool reflects all these things and remains—calm itself.

I like to think of the clear, brown pool and its placid, enduring calm. Sometimes it is a great comfort to remember it.

I wonder how many women realize what home—a real home—means to a man who spends his life in the turmoil and aggressive fight of life in that mysterious region which most women call "downtown"!

I heard a woman talking about it the other day.

She was cross because her husband would not take her to the theatre and afterward to supper at a gay restaurant with a party of lively friends.

"He is downtown all day, she said, "and he doesn't realize what it is to be cooped up at home the way I am. I guess if he did he wouldn't begrudge me a little fun once in a while."

Rest for the Mind

If a man knew that, no matter what happens downtown and how tired he was or how anxious, no matter what new miseries of worry the day might bring, what new treachery of circumstance and new turn of the thumbscrew of disappointment, there was a shaded lamp, quiet, harmonious room and a quiet, loving, peaceful, calm woman who loved him, waiting for him at the end of the day, wouldn't it make a difference, a great and marked difference, in the sum of human happiness?

And then, perhaps, when I do, she will tell me that the shape of it or the color or the shade it casts gets on her nerves and makes her —restless.

"The Former Kaiser."
It's Not Too Late—Buy.
What Pulitzer Did.
Reconstruction Is Coming.

By Arthur Brisbane

At this hour it is "William, kaiser by Divine right," directing millions of men, trying to conquer the world.

Twenty-four hours later it may be "William Hohenzollern, formerly kaiser, will, it is believed, take up his residence for the present in Spain."

Truly it was written: "He hath put down the mighty."

If war is to continue, buy bonds and have your money fighting before it is too late for you to be represented.

If it is to be peace, read the words of the wisest financial expert in this country, buy bonds eagerly and selfishly.

Mr. Friend, who writes in the Chicago Herald and Examiner under the name "Boerslaner," knows more about world finance than any other man writing in this country.

Said he discussing peace:

"Watch the bond market and you will see that men who know think peace is coming. Good bonds are rising and the nearer peace the higher they will rise, especially good government bonds."

You can buy your Liberty Bond now for $100—par value. After the war ends those bonds will no longer be bought for $100. Steadily the price will creep up. Read the following true story:

Years ago Morgan & Co. had arranged to buy government bonds for less than they were worth, a little over 100 for a 4 per cent. United States bond.

Joseph Pulitzer, a fighting newspaper man, determined that the bonds should not sell for less than they were worth to Morgan or anybody else.

He denounced the proposed deal in his newspaper, the New York World, demanding that the people be allowed to buy their own 4 per cent. Government bonds at a hundred and ten.

One day his wife said: "Joseph, you talk about the bonds being worth 110. Why don't you buy some of them yourself at that price?"

In less than a minute Mr. Pulitzer was at the telephone calling up Dumont Clarke, then president of the American Exchange National Bank, saying: "Mr. Clarke, bid 110 for a million dollars of those Government bonds. Buy them for me."

Pulitzer bought the million dollars' worth of bonds, paid one million, one hundred thousand dollars for them. That single purchase shook up the deal that would have sold the bonds to the Morgans.

The bonds were sold in small allotments to the people—and a hundred and ten was the lowest price paid.

Joseph Pulitzer kept his bonds and sold every one of them FOR MORE THAN A HUNDRED AND TWENTY DOLLARS, making ten dollars profit on each, besides interest.

Do you think peace is coming? Then this is the time to buy bonds and make a profit.

If you believe the war will go on, this is the time to buy and prove that you are fit to share in the prosperity awaiting those that deserve it.

Are we nearing the end of war, is the fire nearly out TO STAY OUT?

If so, what a blessing to humanity, what a wonderful rebirth for the civilization of the world.

Power, money and intelligence will go into construction instead of DESTRUCTION.

Having learned how to spend money and use men, the government will spend and use wisely for the world's improvement.

For a fraction of what it has spent in war this nation can drain all its swamps and destroy the mosquitoes, disease carriers.

It can irrigate all its deserts, providing fertile homes for millions of families.

It can make of the inland lake cities ocean ports connected with the Gulf of Mexico and all the ports of the world by a great canal from Chicago to the Mississippi and out past New Orleans.

The government can, in these works, find useful employment for the soldiers that will come back, entitled to good work and good pay in return for risking their lives.

The new day, the peace that is hoped for, will mean the end of financial superstition, the end of foolishness that fears government power, forgetting that it is the PEOPLE'S power.

It will mean better days for all, especially for the more intelligent, the able business man, the resourceful creator of values, real ability always gets its share.

Are we to be disappointed, must the war go on because Germany cannot free herself from autocratic tyranny.

Then, these billions of bonds will be bought, and other billions, as may be necessary.

AND, there are in the country now enrolled twenty-three million men, ready to go over and finish the fight if Germany, Austria and Turkey refuse to admit that it is finished.
